Peace Is Theme of Prayers

Easter Dawns And Bells Ring As Strife In Korea Is Waged

(By The Associated Press)

A hill called Calvary rises over barbed wire entanglements.

Throughout the Christian world, the tolling of bells signifying the resurrection of the Prince of Peace mingled today with the cries of the dogs of war, straining at the leash.

The whine of bullets punctuated solemn Easter morning services in the muddy desolation of war-blackened Korea.

Throughout the free world, Christians prayed that the most terrible destruction that mankind has ever devised will not be visited upon them.

As it has been now for a dozen dark years, peace was the universal theme of Christian prayers. This was the message the bells pealed out over the eternal city of Rome. It was the message in many thousands of pulpits in America and other lands.

On bleak battlefields in Korea, American Soldiers and Marines, side by side with soldiers of other United Nations countries, gathered bareheaded before altars crudely constructed of wooden boxes. Catholic and Protestant chaplains conducted brief services, even as the war against the Communist invaders went on.

At The Holy City

The Holy City of Jerusalem was thronged with pilgrims as the great bells of the ancient Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre pealed out their first joyous Easter notes. Archbishop Albert Gori, Roman Catholic patriarch of the Holy Land, was to lead a procession into the Basilica for the celebration of Easter Mass.

Barbed wire and armed guards met pilgrims at the historic Mandlebaum gate on their way to the holy shrines of Christendom's first Easter. The peacemakers of the United Nations served as go-betweens in making arrangements so that pilgrims could travel from the modern city of Jerusalem, held by Israel, to the old walled city, held for forces of the Kingdom of Jordan. The pilgrims passed through the guards and proceeded along the ancient road believed to be the one where Jesus carried his cross to Calvary. They prayed for peace at the site where the stone was rolled away from the sepulchre.

Sunrise Services

In the United States, traditional Easter Sunday services were arranged in thousands of communities at sunrise—in October amphitheaters, on hilltop clearings, on coastal beaches.

In the cities and towns of America, the parades brought out spring finery throughout the areas where fine weather permitted. New York was crowded by visitors for the Easter parade along Fifth Avenue, and plans were made, weather permitting, for coverage of the parade by television.

But despite the spring gaiety betokened by the fashion parades, there was a note of underlying solemnity, keynoted by a message prepared by Francis Cardinal Spellman for people behind the iron curtain. It told them they would conquer "Godless enemies not with a sword, but with a crucifix."

For the first time since the ancient days of Christianity, midnight Easter masses were celebrated in Rome.

Yesterday, for the first time since the end of the 1950 Holy Year, the Pope received pilgrims in a general audience.

Travel Miles To Hear LeTourneau

"A living example of Christian stewardship of our day and age" was the way Paul Ginn, 1813 East Ninth street, described Robert Gilmour LeTourneau, manufacturer and promoter of Christian work.

"I heard him when I lived in Austin, Tex., said Ginn, "and the crowd was tremendous. Of course everybody in Texas knows about LeTourneau and people came from miles around."

Ginn, who is a native of Texas, was reared in Tyler which is about 22 miles from Lindale farms which is a project of LeTourneau's.

"LeTourneau is a wonderful man and an inspiring speaker" said Ginn. "He spends his weekends making talks like he will do here and every where he goes thousands of people go to hear him. He is a busy man but not too busy to instruct his secretary that all telephone calls made in making arrangements for his appearance anywhere will be paid by him. Also, all expenses for himself and staff in his huge plane are to be paid by him, too. That is part of God's business and he considers the expense his."

Child Born To "Smallest Woman"

LOUISIANA, Mo., March 24—(AP)—Mrs. Lavonda Evans, who claims to be the "smallest woman in the world," gave birth to a boy today.

The baby was delivered by Dr. G. L. Bilyea at his osteopathic nospital here. He described the birth as premature but otherwise normal. The baby had been expected about mid-April.

Mrs. Evans, 31, is about 24 inches tall. Her husband, Alva, 59, is four feet tall. The Evans, who live at nearby Bowling Green, Mo., were with the Clyde Beatty circus last year.

The boy, who has not been named. weighed 3 pounds, 12 ounces. It was placed in an incubator.

Expect 150,000 At Pageant In Lawton Area

Scene Of The Resurrection To Be Depicted At Dawn

LAWTON, Okla., March 24—(AP)—The vanguard of an expected 150,000 persons began moving into the Lawton area early tonight on an annual pilgrimage to witness the Wichita mountain Easter pageant.

Warm spring weather may push the attendance even higher. Skies are clear and temperatures tonight are expected to go no lower than 40 degrees.

Despite this weather outlook early gatherers on the mountain side brought blanket and basket lunches for their long vigil until the program begins at midnight.

The pageantry will continue until the resurrection scene is enacted at dawn.

Oklahoma highway patrolmen moved into the area this afternoon. Some 56 patrolmen in 31 patrol units and an airplane are maintaining a constant traffic check on all roads in the area.

Patrol officials said the period right after the pageant is over will be the most dangerous for motorists. Then, thousands of drivers—sleeply-eyed from being awake all night—will begin jockeying for position to "get out before the rush begins."

All patrol cruisers are stocked with extra gasoline, tow chains, bumper jacks, first aid kits, reflector kits, and flares to aid motorists who might get stranded in the rugged Wichita mountain wildlife area where the pageant is staged in a specially built "Holy City."

Lawton's fire department also set up a first aid station in the area to give emergency treatment to anyone injured in an accident. Booths serving coffee and sandwiches mushroomed to serve the spectators.

"The Eternal Light"

Theme of this year's pageant is "the eternal light." A cast of 2,000 will depict the life, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ. Their stage is the rolling ground around which rises a natural rock-ribbed amphitheater.

The audience will sing traditional Easter hyms before the period of music begins at midnight. Prologue will be held from 2 a. m. to 4 a. m. when the sunrise service begins. Scenes are timed for the resurrection at sunrise.

Four men will portray Christ. One of the actors is Joe Blum, a 20-year-old Jewish soldier from Brooklyn, stationed at Fort Sill. Other Christ roles will be played by John Carter, Pete Williamson and Leroy Botkin.

The role of Mary has been assigned to Miss Billie Duke, former California model and Pasadena college drama student, and Mrs. John Carter, Lawton.

Craig Pierson, Lawton, will speak the Christ lines over the public address system. Scenes of the religious production are acted in pantomine with voices coming from a central studio.

The late Rev. Mark Wallock started the pagent in 1926, and it has been an annual event since. Wallock died in 1948 and for the first time a professional director has charge of the presentation this year. He is the Rev. Lambert S. Orton.

Court Upholds Death Penalty For 2 Killers

SALT LAKE CITY, March 24—(AP)—The Utah Supreme court upheld today the first-degree murder convictions of two young midwesterners accused of killing a service station operator during a holdup.

Verne Alfred Braasch, 25, of Des Moines, Iowa, and Melvin Leroy Sullivan, 20, of Kansas City, Mo., were convicted of killing Howard Manzione at Beaver, Utah, Oct. 22, 1949.

During their trial statements in which the two admitted the slaying were accepted as evidence.

The supreme court appeal was based partly on assertions that the statements had been obtained before the two men had been provided with an attorney.

The supreme court ruled that there was "no evidence of rentless questioning, physical discomfort, threats, misrepresentation of promises made to the accused to induce the confessions."

"Competent counsel" was provided before the men were brought to trial, the supreme court said.

The two men originally were sentenced to be executed Feb. 16, 1950. The appeal halted the execution.

Unless there are additional legal maneuvers a new execution date will be set.

'Nothing To Do With Bond' Says Dr. Nigro

Willing To Appear Before Crime Probing Body

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP)—A $1,000,000-a-year bettor testified today that "three, four or five still-active basketball referees are believed in gambling circles to be involved in fixing college games.

The self-described professional gambler, Sidney A. Brodson of Milwaukee, said also that he felt "something was abnormal" about Madison Square Garden games long before the bribery scandal developed there.

Brodson, a slender, smooth-talking former lawyer, testified before the Senate crime investigating committee.

He wasn't asked for, and didn't give, the names of the referees he suspected of being approachable by fixers.

But he said at least one is in the midwestern Big Ten conference an danother in the east's Ivy league.

"Oddly enough," Brodson said, "these officials are still refereeing."

(In New York, Dave Walsh, associate director of the Eastern College Basketball Bureau, whose duties include the assigning of officials to work in eastern games, including the "Ivy" league, said: ("To my knowledge, all our officials are beyond reproach and we have the utmost confidence in the entire staff.")

(Kenneth "Tug" Wilson, commissioner of the Big Ten, was not immediately available for comment. He is in New York for tonight's Eastern NCAA basketball championship game between Illinois and Kentucky."

Brodson referred to the Big Ten in this somewhat tangled sentence:

"There was one instance in the Big Ten where, when one particular referee referees the games, almost the same situation as took place in the Garden developed."

Big Ten leaders "know about this case," he added.

In the Madison Square Garden game-fixing scandals 11 college basketball players have been arrested.

A short time after the crime committee knocked off work for the week, the FBI announced that it had arrested another alleged gambling figure wanted for questioning by the senators, and had arranged for the appearance of still another.

James Brink was seized at Edgewood, Ky., on a senatorial arrest warrant. His address was listed as the Lookout House, Covington, Ky.

The FBI said it had arranged with attorneys for Louis Levinson to have him appear at the U. S. capitol on April 16. His address was listed as the Flamingo Club, Newport, Ky., but he was located in Miami, Fla.

Brodson faced the senators, the microphones and the newsreel and television cameras after another witness told of helping get two Kansas City gangsters out of jail at the suggestion of a well known Kansas City doctor.

The earlier witness was Lew Farrell, formerly Luigi Fratoo, a chubby ex-boxer known in some police records as "cockeyed Louie." He's a beer distributor in Des Moines, Ia.

Reluctant

Reluctantly, Farrell named the physician as Dr. D. M. Nigro after senators threatened him with contempt proceedings if he remained silent. Even then, Farrell protested against naming a man "of the highest character' on a televised hearing.

The gangsters in question were Charlie and Gus Gargotta. Charlie Garvotta was slain, underworld fashion, along with political figure Charles Binaggio in a Truman road clubhouse in Kansas City last April.

At Knsas City, Dr. Nigro said he had "nothing to do with the bond for the Gargotta brothers." This was posted in cash on Easter Sunday, 1947, after the two were arrested on charges of holding up a Harlan, Iowa, night club.

"I received a call and someone asked me who I knew in Des Moines," Nigro said. "I mentioned several persons I knew there, but I didn't ask why."

Nigro said the FBI had questioned him about the call. He added he would be willing to testify to the committee about it —"I have nothing to hide."

Nigro, a Notre Dame football player in 1912-13-14, is a sports enthusiast and served as city commissioner of child hygine when the old Tom Pendergast political organization was in power.

Case Was Dismissed

He was convicted in 1940 of narcotics law violation and was sentenced to serve four years and fined $12,000. However, his conviction was reversed in U. S. Circuit court of appeals at St. Louis and the case was dismissed.

The Gargottas went free of the night club holdup charges, which were dismissed for lack of evidence.

They had been arrested at Kansas City in April, 1947, and taken under heavy guard to Iowa in connection with the $7,600 holdup. They were placed in the Atlantic, Iowa jail for safekeeping and bond was set at $15,000 each.

My Little White Bible

My little white Bible
With each page edged in gold
Wherein the great story
Of God's love is told;
My little white Bible
From Childhood it brings
A beautiful memory
Of life's sweeter things;
That bright Easter morning
I shall never forget,
My white Easter outfit,
I can see myself yet,
And clasping so tight
In my small white Kid glove
I went off to church
With the book that I love;
There were bunnies and chicks,
And eggs colored bright,
So many nice things
To my childish delight,
But the one Easter gift
That excelled all the rest
Was the little white bible
That I loved the best;
And always its story
Has shown me the way
The little white Bible
Of that Easter Day.

Harness Atom For Industry

New Method Of Producing Energy In Argentina

By Joseph F. McEvoy

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, March 24—(AP)—Argentine scientists have produced atomic energy by a new method much cheaper than the usual processes and are probing problems of the hydrogen bomb, President Juan D. Peron announced today.

He said the atomic energy will be developed on a big scale and harnessed exclusively for industrial use.

Implying Argentine leadership in hydrogen bomb research, he said the study of solar reactions by a new type apparatus called the thermotron show foreign scientists are "still far from their goal," at least on the basis of what they have published.

The production of atomic energy is "transcendental for the future life of Argentina and I do not doubt of the entire world," Peron said.

He made the announcement at a news conference limited to Argentine newsmen normally stationed at his palace, the Casa Rosada. Foreign correspondents were excluded.

Argentine scientists obtained "the controlled release of atomic energy" through "thermonuclear reactions" Feb 16 at a government pilot plant on Huemul Island at San Carlos De Bariloche, the president said in a prepared statement. The island is near the Chilean border 850 miles by air southwest of Buenos Aires.

Peron did not explain the new method in detail, but said the experiment was performed "under conditions of control on a technical scale x x x on the basis thermonuclear reactions indentical to those whereby the sun releases atomic energy."

Rev. London Invites Gov. Smith To Testify

Duty For Field Grade Officers

Total Of 1,500 To Be In Active Service By June 29

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP)—The Army announced tonight that 1,500 field grade officers of the National Guard and organized reserve will go on active duty by June 29.

Of the total, 1,100 will be majors and 400 lieutenant colonels. They will come from infantry, armor, artillery, signal corps, engineers and chemical corps categories. The National Guard officers can be brought in only if they volunteer. The members of the organized reserve will be ordered up if not enough volunteer.

Up to now emphasis has been on the calling up of junior grade officers—lieutenants and captains—who have been needed in expansion of the armed forces. But the progress of the expansion has now reached the point where additional field grade officers are needed.

Today's announcement followed two yesterday affecting Guard, Reserve and ROTC officers. One said that 5,516 officers and enlisted men of National Guard units and 815 officers and men of organized reserve corps units would be called to active duty. (This did not include those involved in today's announcement.) The other said the Army would call to active duty this summer all students enrolled in the Reserve Officers Training Corps program who graduate this spring. Approximately 10,000 ROTC men will be involved.

While the Army is stepping up the officer recall program, it is slowing down the rate of its troop expansion. Yesterday the Army said it was cutting in half—to 40,000—the original draft quota asked for April. It gave as the reason a much higher rate of recruiting than expected and fewer casualties in Korea than were estimated.

Of today's announcement, the Army said many of the 1,500 officers are expected "to enter duty voluntarily in the present emergency." No member of the inactive reserve and no individual National Guard officer will be ordered to active duty under this program "unless he volunteers," the Army said.

First priority will be for qualified volunteers of the organized Reserve Corps and National Guard and second to members of the volunteer reserve. The Army added: "Preference will be given to officers who consent to be ordered to active duty and who have served on active duty for the customary 21 months, or such other period as may be authorized by law.

Search For Missing Still On

Fear Expressed All 53 On Big Air Transport Have Perished

SHANNON AIRPORT, Ireland, March 24—(AP)—Recovery of an airforce type valise tonight swung fleets of ships and planes toward a new sector of the Atlantic in search of the U. S. Airforce Globemaster, missing since early Friday with 53 persons aboard.

The valise was picked up by the international weather ship Charlie at 6:30 p. m., London time, (1:30 p. m. EST), 630 miles southwest of Shannon. The Charlie was one of two weather ships that had previously been sent to the area 500 miles west of Ireland following reports early today that flares, wreckage and life rafts had been sighted.

The valise was the first object actually to be picked up as a possible clue to the whereabouts of the huge army transport C-124. It was found as hopes were fading for the missing men.

(U. S. Coast Guard headquarters in Boston said its cutter Casco radioed it had picked up a charred duffle bag, identified as belonging to one of the Globemaster's passengers, 550 miles west southwest of Shannon. The Casco's message said the bag belonged to U. S. Airforce Capt. L. E. Rafferty of Great Lakes, Ill., listed among the 53 persons aboard the plane.

(Apparently the Casco was based at the international weather station in the Atlantic designated as "C for Charlie." Boston Coast Guard headquarters said the Casco was not at its assigned weather station when it reported picking up the bag. It is possible that the Casco may have referred to itself simply as "Charlie" in its message to the airforce rescue headquarters at Shannon. The Airforce said the message it had received gave no description of the condition of the bag or any other details. The differences in reported positions were the bag was found could not immediately be explained, but it appeared both messages referred to the same bag.)

No Trace of Rafts

Fifty planes and five ships criss-crossed the area 500 miles west of Ierland for 12 hours and found no trace of the bobbing life rafts, wreckage and flares reported there earlier by a lone B-29 pilot.

"We have received a lot of favorable information, but we don't want to build up anyone's hopes," Maj. Horace Stevenson, commanding the U. S. Air Force rescue mission, said earlier today. "We received reports this morning that possible life rafts and flares had been sighted. We diverted rescut vessels and rescue aircraft to the scene, but aircraft reported back to this station tonight with a negative result.

"The search continues and it will go on as long as we have any hope of finding survivors."

The giant Globemaster disappeared in fog and rain at 1 a. m. Greenwich mean time yesterday (8 p. m. E.S.T., Thursday) it was last heard from in a routine radio report of its position 800 miles southwest of the Irish coast. The plane was en route from Limestone, Me., air base to the U. S. Air Force base at Mildenwall, England. Among those aboard was Brig. Gen. Paul T. Cullen, deputy commander of the U. S. Second Air Force, and four officers of the strategic air command headquarters at Omaha, Neb.

Ten more U. S. Air Force planes were to go into the hunt at dawn, following up an all-night effort by planes with radar eyes.

Air Force officers expressed fear that the 53 were lost. The high hopes they had felt earlier in the day with the B-29 pilot's report were dwindling rapidly.

A. R. Maulsby Guides Forum On OPS Rules

A. R. Maulsby of the District OPS office in Kansas City was the chief speaker at the local meeting of merchants and manufacturers held in the Smith-Cotton cafeteria Friday night. He discussed reasons behind ceiling prices and regulations.

Damon Hieronymus, chairman of the local board, introduced the speaker. Before the introduction, Hieronymus quoted the following paragraphs from the magazine "Store", with which most merchants are familiar.

Much Control—Little Confusion.

"In issuing its retail markup regulation, the Office of Price Stabilization modestly observed: 'It is more important that retail price control be understandable, unambigious and enforceable than that it be, on paper, 'tight'.' Any implication that a regulation couldn't be both understandable and tight must have been unintentional. This regulation is masterly in closing loopholes and for clarity is beyond criticism.

"The price control philosophy expressed in the order and in the statement, which went with it is based on the classic picture of retailing in boom economy. It assumes a dollar volume high enough to lower expense rates automatically; and it assumes a decrease in markdowns, tending, to raise gross margin. To narrow the too-comfortable spread that might develop between the gross margin percentage and the expense percentage, OPS has several handy devices. Some some become effective with this order; others are described but reserved for future use, when and if that picture of expanding margin and shrinking expense becomes a reality."

Mr. Maulsby then gave his impressive talk on the ceiling prices and regulations. He is a former business man with 20 years practical and experience and intimately familiar with merchant's problems.

After the talk questions were submitted by the merchants to Mr. Maulsby and Hieronymus, who in turn clarified them.

Rotary Talk On Fair Grounds

William E. Preston, secretary of the Missouri State Fair, will be the speaker at the Rotary club meeting Monday noon at the Bothwell hotel.

William E. Preston

Mr. Preston will take as his subject: "Use the Missouri State Fair Grounds Through the Year." He will explain why they have added an extra day for a total of nine days, August 18 to 26, what is being done at the fair grounds in the way of employment, construction, repair and maintenance and other things. Mr. Preston will also tell about Missouri's new look in fairs and the complete new policy that is now in effect.

After serving for a year in the setting up and management of the Clay County Planning commission in the courthouse in Liberty, Mo., where he was zoning and planning engineer, Mr. Preston was appointed Missouri State Fair secretary. Prior to that he was with the United States government nine years, through the mid-west, Hawaii and Europe on many special assignments pertaining mostly to property and supply as well as U. S. government surplus property disposal. A newspaper man by profession he spent over 10 years on family papers in Norborne and Liberty. He attended Missouri Valley college and Chililcothe Business college. He is 34 years old and unmarried.

Allied Troops Advance

Orders From General MacArthur To Cross Boundary If Necessary

TOKYO, Sunday, March 25—(AP)—Allied forces arrayed just south of Korea's 38th parallel had orders from General MacArthur today to cross the old boundary if necessary to whip the Chinese Reds.

As Easter sunshine splashed across the brown Korean hills, powerful allied armored columns and parachute troops were consolidating swift gains made during the week. At one point they were within two miles of the parallel. The Reds offered little or no resistance except north of Seoul.

A delayed dispatch from AP correspondent Jim Becker American and Belgian troops battled hand-to-hand with die-hard Chinese dug in on hills northwest and northeast of Uijongbu.

Using bayonets and hand grenades, the Americans and Belgians advanced 1,000 yards Saturday. A frontline officer said the Reds were well dug in "and beautifully camouflaged."

South Korean troops were clearing out minor pockets of resistance in the area northwest of Seoul sealed off Friday by American paratroopers and an armored force. The paratroops were within eight miles of the parallel.

Hills Are Captured

On the east-central front, Americans took one hill after another against light resistance—mostly rearguard actions covering the Korean Reds' northward withdrawal.

MacArthur returned to Tokyo late Saturday after a one-day visit to liberated Seoul and the frontlines north of the capital. He told correspondents he had ordered the U. S. Eighth army to cross the parallel into Red North Korea "if and when its security makes it tactically advisable."

There still was no official Chinese broadcast reaction to MacArthur's offer—issued before he flew to Korea—to meet the Communist commander in the field and discuss a means of ending the war without shedding more blood.

The United Nations military commander asserted that Red China lacked the industrial muscle to continue to buck modern allied firepower and weapons, notwithstanding the waves of Red manpower.

And he warned that should the U. N. decide to extend the war to Chinas coast and inland bases, it would mean the collapse of Chinese Communist miltary power.

Babe Suffocates In Parents' Bed

James Albert Bishop, four months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bishop, was found dead in his parents' bed about 1:15 o'clock Saturday morning, death was caused by suffociation due to a lung condition. The Bishop family reside in a tenant house on the farm of W. A. Claycomb, route 1, Hughesville, north of Sedalia, on highway 65.

Mrs. Bishop found her baby was dead when she started to turn him over. When the child didn't respond with its usual cry she became alarmed and awakened her husband. They then called the local police and they in turn notified Dr. C. Gordon Staufacher, coroner, who, with Sgt. W. S. Barton of the state highway patrol went to the home. They conducted an investitgation and Dr. Staufacher said the baby had been dead about an hour.

The baby was born in Howard county, near New Franklin, November 21, 1950. The Bishop family moved to the Claycomb farm in the Hughesville community in January.

Besides his parents, Raymond and Cora Bishop, he is survived by one sister, Kathleen Bishop, 11; six brothers, Robert Lee, 12, Raymond E. Bishop, 10, Carl J. Bishop, 7, John M. Bishop, 5, Billy Gene Bishop, 3 and George W. Bishop, 2, all of the home; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bishop, 720 North Grand avenue, Sedalia; Mr. and Mrs. John Dodson, Fayette, Mo.

Box-top Contest Judges Think That's Best Jingle They Ever Read; But it Didn't Win a Thing in Race Where Odds Reach Million-to-One

By Richard Kleiner
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Contests always look so easy, You just write a few words, clip off the top of a box, mail in your entry and wait for the armored car with your money. The only trouble is that usually hundreds of thousands of other people have the same idea.

Which means that the odds against winning the top prize in most contests range from 500,000 to 1,000,000-to-1. But, despite the odds, few people can resist the lure of the box-top bonanza.

Behind the contest scene is a smoothly-efficient concern, The Reuben H. Donnelley Corp., which engineers about 90 per cent of the nation-wide contests. They inherit all the headaches, from the initial planning stage until the last indignant letter from a sore loser is answered.

* * *

The first problem of contest planners is what kind of a contest to plan. The Donnelley people say the choice is limited, in actual practice, to four basic types:

1. The old stand-by "25 words or less" essay type. You're supposed to tell why you like Old Aunt Martha's Cheerful Chutney with a stated number of words, almost invariably 25.

2. The naming contest. If a sponsor wants to launch a new product or a new advertising symbol, you suggest the name. Usually, you have to add a 25-word thesis on why you like the name, as a tie-breaker.

3. The jingle contest. The sponsor gives you a few lines of a jingle, and you add on a last line to rhyme. Sometimes, you write a whole verse.

* * *

Although it didn't win a thing, Donnelley officials like to quote one jingle as the best they ever read. It was in a contest to write a four-liner about somebody's favorite brunette, and read:

My favorite brunette
Is Hedy Lamarr.
Just send her along
And keep your old car.

4. The slogan contest. In this one, you simply write a catchy slogan for the product.

It really doesn't matter which contest is used, as far as response is concerned.

The same thing applies to prizes. The Donnelley people say that cash prizes pull better than merchandise prizes, but they all do well. The only kind of merchandise that consistently lures more entries than plain folding money is fancy fur coats.

* * *

But almost always the fur coat winner, if he (or she) has a choice, will take cash instead of the coat. Which leaves contest planners a little confused about human nature.

The Donnelley experts write the rules with great care. They point out that a contest entry legally constitutes a contract. They take no chances on embarrassing loopholes in the rules.

Donnelley's judges think there are a lot of dumb-bells running around loose. They estimtate that almost one-third of all entries are automatically disqualified for violation of simple rules.

Many people forget to sign their names. Others sign their names, but forget to enclose an entry. If the contest says "25 words," some people write more. Twenty-six words and you're out.

* * *

Then there's the "proof of purchase," which is the technical term for the label or box-top. Many entrants forget this completely or send one from a competitor's product. Sometimes, when asked for the box front, they'll send the back or the side or the bottom.

The old "reasonably accurate facsimile" is a thing of the past. The post office no longer requires that provision. The "facsimile" idea was always good for a laugh, like the time a woman sent in the picture of a man with a big grin. She explained, "Here is the face smile you wanted."

All Donnelley judges are college-trained and specially-instructed. But not everybody can be a judge. One man resigned after three days, on the verge of a nervous collapse. He couldn't stand the strain. Donnelley had to fire another, a Ph. D., when they found his standards were too high. He didn't think anybody deserved to win.

* * *

Judging thousands of entries is done by process of elimination, gradually weeding out the poorer ones. First to go are the jingles that don't rhyme, the 25-word essays that don't make sense and the slogans that are echoes of previous winners.

Then the entries are read again and again, with the judges getting tougher and tougher. The ranks are thinned with each reading.

The final judging, when only the best entries remain, is the work of Donnelley executives. This is done on a "blind" basis, with the entry itself visible but not the name or address of the entrant. Each of 18 executives rates the finalists and their individual ratings are tabulated to determine the ultimate winner.

Once the winner is picked, he is investigated. The winner must sign an affidavit, swearing that the prize-winning entry was his own work.

* * *

One woman winner refused, saying she had religious scruples against swearing and couldn't sign the affidavit. Donnelley substituted the word "affirm" for "swear" and she got her money.

Donnelley men are kept busy answering irate letters. Indignant contestants insist they've been gypped out of their rightful prize. Frequent letters are received from people who generously offer to split the booty with the judges, a bribe that is quickly and firmly rejected. But every letter that comes in is answered, promptly and politely.

Auction at the Meet of 4-H Club

The Hillview 4-H club met at the home of John W. Parkhurst. The president, Annette Conoway opened the meeting by leading in the 4-H pledge. Jim Conaway gave a report on "Taking Care of My Gilt."

It was voted to give $2 to the Red Cross. Games were played.

An auction sale was held and participated in by members and parents. Kay McClure was a visitor. Television was viewed and refreshments were served by Mrs. Parkhurst.

The April meeting will be at the home of Catherine DeBord.

Speeder Checking By Kilometers

DETROIT, March 23 — (AP) — Whizzing along a Detroit street at 60 miles an hour, Bernardus J. J. Camp was arrested for speeding.

But this explanation got him off with a suspended sentence in Detroit, where traffic violators normally go to jail.

"I am from The Netherlands, where distance is measured in kilometers instead of miles. I forgot your speedometers registered miles an hour—not kilometers. A kilometer is .621 of a mile."

In a quick, off-hand calculation Traffic Judge Watts decided 60 kilometers would be roughly 37 miles an hour and suspended sentence for Kamp, chief accountant for the Kaiser-Fraser Corp., in Rotterdam. He was here on a business trip.

Conley Gets La Scala Honor

MILAN—(AP)—American tenor Eugene Conley will sing the lead in the opening night of La Scala's opera season here next Christmas Eve. It will be the first time a foreign artist has had this honor, generally reserved to famed Italian singers. Conley will appear in Verdie's Vespri Sicilani," which has not been performed at La Scala for 41 years, owing to the lack of a suitable voice.

Conley sang at La Scala in Vincenzo Bellini's "Puritani" in 1949 and 1950, and made an excellent impression.

NEW DELHI—(AP)—Operation homeless—counting the thousands of this and every Indian city's pavement dwellers — confronts volunteer workers finishing up the first national census.

Last U. S. Horse Platoon Still Rides in Berlin

38 Cavalrymen And Their Horses Patrol Soviet Zone Border, Control Riots

IN A DRIVING SNOWSTORM, the U. S. Army's 759th Horse Platoon rides along the Soviet border on "dirty weather" patrol duty. For this picture and the one at right, NEA-Acme Staff Correspondent Allyn Baum went on an eight-hour patrol mission with the cavalrymen. They are the first photos since 1945 of the horse platoon on duty other than ceremonial parade.

Pictures and Text
By ALLYN BAUM
NEA Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Germany —(AP)— The last and only mounted horse platoon on active duty in the U. S. army still rides in Berlin.

Its 38 men and their horses, part of the 759th Military Police, were among the first troops to enter Berlin in 1945. Then their job was to patrol the Soviet zonal border, maintain order, and carry out missions in parts of the city where mechanized vehicles are unable to operate.

Today the 759th horse platoon's primary task is riot control. As a part of the American Constabulary, it is a highly-mobile striking force, heavily armed with rifles, pistols, sabres and riot sticks.

Many of the men under Lt. Marion A. Lewis, Jr., of Reading, Pa., platoon commandant, are old hands in the cavalry. First Sgt. Emmitt Roberts, of Denison, Tex., for instance, is a survivor of the Bataan death march who has ridden horses in the army for 20 years. Sgt. Paul Sanford, of Marks, Miss., has been a cavalryman for 12 years.

Although patrolling is now secondary duty for this last remnant of American cavalry, its men are called out to ride the meandering border between the U. S. and Soviet zones in dirty weather.

Then, in heavy snow or rain, nine men ride their horses for an eight-hour stint.

Their saddles are McClellans, the design of which dates back to Civil War days when mounted troops first became an important part of the U. S. army.

Unlike motorized patrols, the horse platoon has no radio communications while it is on border duty. Orders and messages are sent to the patrol by dispatch rider.

It may be out of step with push-button warfare, but the 759th horse platoon still gets places where other patrols can't go.

VETERAN CAVALRYMAN Sgt. Emmitt Roberts, of Denison, Tex., uses his helmet as a water bucket for his horse during a patrol mission in Berlin. Roberts, a survivor of the Bataan death march, has been in the cavalry for 20 years.

It Takes More Than Azaleas To Make an Azalea Festival

AZALEAS AND MOSS: Greenfield Lake, in Wilmington, N. C., is one of the major attractions of the annual azalea festival March 29-April 1, which features a lot more than azaleas.

By NEA Service

WILMINGTON, N. C.—(NEA)—It takes more than azaleas to make an Azalea Festival, at least the way Wilmington stages one. Besides flowers, this year's festival will feature golfers, checker players, pretty girls, hill-billy orchestras and assorted military men.

The annual celebration, which this year hopes to attract more than 100,000 visitors, marks the climax of southeastern North Carolina's azalea season.

For the genuine azalea lover, the festival is the big event of the year. All types and colors will be out in profuse bloom in shades ranging from white through magenta, purple, pink, lavender and red to crimson.

Besides Wilmington's own Greenfield Park, two private gardens will be open to the public. These are the Orton Plantation and Airlie Estate, both famous for their acres of well-tended gardens. The azaleas themselves have competition from late-blooming camellias, white dogwood, roses and wisteria.

* * *

But there's much more to the big doings than just admiring flowers. This year's festival will be dedicated to the armed services, and marines and GIs from near-by posts will be there to sniff the azaleas.

There'll be the annual $10,000 PGA Azalea Open Golf tournament, with last year's champ, Dutch Harrison, defending his title. And there's the Southeastern U. S. Checker tournament, run during the festival.

All sorts of radio personalities will do broadcasts from Wilmington during the big doings. And there'll be a Community Sing and a Teen-Age Azalea ball—you've missed something if you haven't seen an azalea dance.

* * *

Another big event is the annual parade, this one lasting an hour and a half. There'll be more than 50 floats, decorated with you-know-whats, and featuring pretty girls, too. And 20 bands will tootle down Wilmington's main street.

Next on the program is a folk music program, featuring North Carolina's "King of the Hill Billies," Arthur Smith. Later on there's a band concert scheduled right smack in the middle of an azalea bed in the park.

The climax of all the hilarity will be the Queen's Coronation ball. Nobody knows who the queen will be. They do know she'll be a Hollywood actress—at least the past queens have been. And she'll be pretty. And she'll carry a bouquet of a certain kind of flower.

The odds are it won't be a dandelion.

Many of the Girl Scouts have been busy making tray favors for the local hospitals. The following troops have participated in this project. Troop 1 Broadway school, Mrs. E. Harlan and Mrs. C. Freeberg, leaders; troop 17, Mark Twain, Mrs. O. Perkins and Mrs. O. Pfunder, leaders; troop 71, Washington, with Mrs. Kenneth Manns, leader; troop 65, Horace Mann, with Mrs. Sam Knapp, Mrs. Donald Trueman and Mrs. King Hyatt as leaders. Thirty-five members of troop 12, Horace Mann held a court of awards on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. C. A. Freeberg presided over the service and presented the girls with their pins and badges. Ten candles were lighted as ten girls gave the Girl Scout laws. Girl Scout pins were given to Loyce Curtis, Mary Lou Cook, Janet Harper, Patty Potts, Glenda Allison, Jane Black, Barbara Mabry and Yvonne Woolery. Second class awards were given to Deanna and Doris Bohon, Jane Black, Barbara Freund, Barbara Mabry, Patty Moore, Wanda McCubbin, Gwennie Moon, Sheila Nold, Kay Richardson, Charlene Sutherlin, Judy Henry, Joan Spahr, and Sanda Lynch. International Friendship pins were received by Patty Moore, Shella Nold, Wanda McCubbin, Joan Spahr, Yvonne Woolery, Gwennie Moon, Kay Richardson, Jane Black, Sandra Lynch, Deanna and Doris Bohon, Barbara Freund, Barbara Mabry, Judy Henry and Shela Merry. Mrs. Freund and Mrs. Christy Spahr are the leaders of this progressive troop.

Troop 55 Hubbard school with Mrs. Olander Black leader, met at the clubhouse on Monday evening. Eleven members were present and plans were made for an Easter egg hunt. Favors are being made for Hospital No. 2 for Easter. After the Brownie Promise was given the meeting was adjourned. Anita Foster, Scribe.

Hostess to An Extension Club

Mrs. Alfred Brown entertained the La Monte Homemakers Extension club. A contributive luncheon was served at the noon hour. The afternoon meeting was opened with singing the club song.

Mrs. Emmet Brown spoke on poultry. The president, Mrs. Arthur Perkins, introduced Mrs. Earl Johnson of Green Ridge, who reviewed the book, "It Was Not What I Expected." Mrs. Edward Gregory asked questions concerning St. Patrick's day.

The game and song leader, Mrs. Alfred Brown, led in the recreation period.

Guests were Mrs. Leonard Reavis, Mrs. Karl Johnson, Mrs. R. E. Defrain, Miss Joyce Rudisill and brother, Kelvin Rudisill, of Minnesota, and Miss Alice Brown of the home.

The April meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Mary Ellis.

Where were you on the night of December 1st?

We don't know how you were making out with your budget on the night of December 1st—but, on an annual basis, we were within an hour or so of reaching our "break even" point.

Let's divide all the money Standard Oil took in last year equally among the 365 days, Sundays and holidays included.

Well, then, all the money that we took in from January 1 up to noon of August 2—213½ days, or 58.5% of the year—was our cost for materials, transportation and wear and tear. These items compare roughly to what it costs you to feed, clothe and house your family. They're living expenses.

All the money we took in from noon of August 2 until the early afternoon of October 7—a shade over 66 full days, or 18.1% of the year—was paid out in taxes, including our own taxes and those we collect from customers for national, state and local governments. This doesn't include "hidden" taxes, however; we and you both work a good many more days every year to earn the money it takes to pay them.

All the money we took in from the afternoon of October 7 until the night of December 1 was spent for wages, salaries and employee benefits. We worked 15.2% of the year, almost exactly 55½ days, to earn enough to pay wages and benefits for our 46,700 employees—but our total payroll, big as it is, is still less than what we pay for taxes.

So there we were, at midnight of December 1, within an hour or so of having enough money in to meet all our expenses. From then until the end of the year, what we took in was called our profit—and this is what happened to it:

The larger part—the money we took in during 5.5% of the year, the 20 days up to the night of December 21—we used in the business to expand and improve the facilities with which we serve you. The rest, the money we took in during 2.7% or 10 days out of the whole year, was paid to our 96,000 owners in the form of dividends.

U. S. Navy Trains Airmen of West Europe

Pilot Program at Pensacola is North Atlantic pact, Man-to-Man Level

By Douglas Larsen
NEA Staff Correspondent

PENSACOLA, NAVAL AIR STATION, Fla. — (NEA) — The North Atlantic Pact has begun to get results at the man-to-man level.

This is the first report on the progress of a vital part of America's arms aid program to the countries of Western Europe—the training of their pilots by the U. S. navy. Security wraps have now been lifted on everything but the exact numbers of student pilots involved.

Since the Korean war began, the navy's pilot training program has been increased more than 50 per cent. The training of pilots for the democratic countries of Europe has been made an integral part of this greatly expanded course.

The navy says the cream of America's youth is now in its huge school for birdmen. Shoulder to shoulder with Western Europe's best youth, they are learning the same fundamentals of military discipline, sharing the same classroom lessons, experiencing the same fears and thrills of the first solo flight.

* * *

In this process, a hard core of mutual understanding and friendship is being formed that no amount of Russian propaganda can ever destroy.

A 19-year-old French student, Christian Daumal, puts it this way:

"We had heard some pretty funny things about America and American boys before we came over. And at first it was strange getting used to what was going on. Now I think they're the best buch of guys I've ever been with. I'll be sorry to leave them after I get my wings."

Similar sentiment is expressed by the American lads of their fellow foreign students.

The navy is making a conscious effort to encourage friendships and associations between the regular students and the foreigners. Only one foreign student is billeted in each four-man room. Families on the base and in the city of Pensacola are encouraged to entertain the European boys. Local girls are introduced to them at special dances and parties.

* * *

You see hot games of ping-pong and pool with Italian, French and Dutch boys all taking part with the American lads. Week-ends you see an Atlanta boy taking home his French pal. Some of the foreign students are officers who brought their wives here. They go to movies, parties and play bridge with the officers and wives of the American officers who are also students.

Only two minor bugs have been discovered in the program—a language difficulty and the lack of basic mechanical experience on the part of the European boys. Although fluency in English is a basic requirement for training here, a lot of technical aircraft lingo has no foreign language counterpart. They're learning a brand new language.

The lack of basic mechanical aptitude is a common finding among the foreign students, when compared to Americans. Most of the European boys never have driven a car. Some consideration was given to starting out the course for them with a check-out in a jeep.

* * *

Nevertheless, says Capt. Dale Harris, Chief of Staff of the navy's training command, the European students are proving to be just as proficient as the American students in both academic and flight training. Only one French boy, of all of the foreigners, has failed to finish pre-flight school. That was because he couldn't learn to swim, an essential requirement for all naval aviators. Not one has washed out in the flight training.

Like the American boys, when the foreign students finally get their wings at Pensacola, they're qualified to fly just about any airplane being used by the air force and navy. The complete course takes 44 weeks. They can operate off carriers and fly jets. A large part of each class goes into multi-engine airplane training.

If war should come this program will provide a large supply of pilots from the Western European countries who would be able to use U. S. equipment and integrate their efforts with American fliers, having been training in the same procedures and in the same airplanes.

In addition to pilot training here, there are schools which teach air medicine and photography. An undisclosed number of students from North Atlantic Pact countries are also in these programs.

Democrat class ads get results!

Elopement is Permanent

STINSON LAKE, N. H.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Leon Page eloped 69 years ago. She was 16 then, and he was 19.

After working in sawmills and woolen mills, Page became a contractor and builder. He retired several years ago. Mrs. Page has been a constant companion on her husband's hunting and fishing trips.

Years ending in the figure "2" have been important in their life. Page left his boyhood home in Rumney for Ashland in 1872. It was in Ashland that he met the former Mary A. Clough and in 1882 they were married. They built their home in Ashland in 1892 and the cottage at Stinson Lake where they now live in 1902.

Video Shoots Up The Town

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y.—(AP)—A flurry of gun shots rang out in a quiet night air of this suburban hamlet. Alarmed and sleepy residents by the dozen stumbled to their telephones and called local police to report trouble. Three squad cars, sirens whining, red lights blinking, rushed to the residential area, as police limbered up their revolvers for action.

They found the trouble within minutes: A teen-ager television party. The high school students watching a late evening show involving a doughty sheriff catching the cattle rustlers, had found the house a bit warm and had thrown open the living room windows just in time for the big gun battle.

Blue Grass On Mars Reds Say

BERLIN—(AP)—Soviet scientists, according to the East Berlin Communist newspaper, "Berliner Zeitung," have discovered that vegetation exists on Mars. But, they say, it is as blue as a Siberian evening.

The paper quotes Professor Gavrill Tikhov, a member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences as saying that "the plants on Mars have developed a blue coloring because they must draw more energy from the sunlight." The newspaper assures its readers that other great things are coming from Soviet scince. "Bourgeois science," it states, "has hardly gone beyond fantastic hypotheses in this matter."

Milks Consumption Cuts Butter Supply

WASHINGTON — (AP) —Families with more money to spend are buying more milk with the result that there is less of it available for the manufacture of dairy products, according to a report, by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the Department of Agriculture.

The report states that butter production has fallen about 20 per cent in the past year and cheese about 10 per cent. The supply of milk for butter and cheese manufacture is expected to keep on dwindling. The drop in production, the bureau announces, has practically wiped out the U. S. held stocks of butter and cheese.

The U. S. control about 4,300,000 cubic feet of helium reserves in Texas and New Mexico alone.

Estate Funds To Scout Council

Announcement was made by Wilkie Cunnyngham, treasurer of the Lake of the Ozarks council, that funds in the amount of $40.59 had been received from the estate of Norville Campbell, who died in Oklahoma some time ago.

Mr. Campbell formerly resided in Marshall, Mo., and it is understood that at one time he might have had a modest estate. His will specified that half of the estate should go to the Lake of the Ozarks council.

Funds such as these are set aside in the Trust Fund established by the council and are administered by a special board of trustees. The trustees are Hugh Stephens, Jefferson City, chairman; Atwell Bohling, Sedalia; Edwin F. Brady, Warsaw; Leonard VanDyke, Marshall, and Harry Kay of Eldon.

Wage Credits As to Service In The Military

Provided In An Amendment On Social Security

Of great importance to veterans, their families or survivors is a new amendment to the social security law which grants wage credits of $160.00 for each month of World War II military service. Since these credits may be given whether or not the veteran died in service or after discharge, survivors in many cases where payments were not possible under the old law, will now be eligible for monthly benefits. Because of these new service-connected wage credits, others may receive substantially increased payments. For veterans now living, these credits may be used in determining the amount of insurance payments to the veteran and his family when he retires at age 65 or later. Also, they can be used to determine the amount of monthly benefits payable to his survivors in case of his death at any age. Former legislation did not provide any credit for military service where death occurred in service or more than three years after discharge, or where a pension or compensation was payable by the Veterans Administration.

How Families Benefit

Here are two examples, taken from actual records, to show how veterans' families will benefit from the new legislation:

1. Henry entered military service in January 1941, and was killed in action in Germany in August 1945. His widow was awarded a monthly benefit of $8.93 and his child a monthly benefit of $5.95. These benefits were small because Henry's "Average Monthly Wage" was reduced by lack of wage credits for over 4 years of military service.

When the widow remarried in 1947, her benefit stopped, and the child's benefit was increased to $10.00, the family minimum at that time. This was automatically increased to $18.00 monthly when benefit rates were raised in September 1950 in accordance with the amended law. However, now that $160.00 a month can be credited to Henry's wage account for 56 months of service, the child will be eligible to receive $40.80 a month in addition to any payments being made by the Veterans Administration.

2. A professional man, who was otherwise excluded from coverage under the Social Security Act, spent 3 years in World War II military service. He died in October 1950, more than three years after his discharge. Under the old law, the widow and three children could not quality for any social security payments at all. Now that he can be credited with $160.00 a month during his military service, and thus acquires a minimum of 6 quarters of coverage, he is considered to have died a fully insured individual, and monthly benefits will be payable to his widow and children until the last child reaches age 18.

These wage credits, it is important to note, are not granted for World War II military service if the veteran was a federal employee and his Civil Service benefits include credit for the military service. Nor can these credits be granted to make possible a lump-sum payment or to increase a lump-sum which was previously paid, if the veteran died before September 1.

Families of veterans who die—including widows with minor children of veterans who have died in service — should inquire promptly about possible benefits at the Sedalia social security office. In most cases, payments are possible even though the veteran had little or no employment in civilian jobs covered by the social security program; however, benefits cannot be paid unless a claim is filed.

Bobbie Dean Lee, formerly of Sedalia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Lee, Versailles, grandson of Carl Edwards, 1505 West Sixteenth street and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lee, 2707 East Twelfth street, who just finished his boot training at Great Lakes, Ill.

The United States has about three-fifths of the world's telephones.

Convict Dies In Escape Try At Jeff City

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 24—(AP)—One convict was killed and another wounded in an attempt break from the Missouri State Penitentiary last night.

Ollie Lee Hickson, 23, was shot and killed by guards who spotted him trying to go over a 25-foot wall.

His companion in the attempted break was Austin L. Terreli, 23, of Ash Grove, Mo., Hickson was from Newport, Ark.

Terrel was wounded in the right wrist.

Col. B. Marvin Casteel, head of the state corrections department, said the men had been working on temporary duty on the prison power house. They found an 18-foot steel ladder there and took it to the nearest prison wall about 150 feet way. There they tried to climb over the wall and both of them got on top before the guards spotted them and started shooting.

Terrell Shot First

Terrell was hit first and scrambled back down the ladder and ran back to the power house. Hickson was hit twice in the abdomen and chest and died halfway across the wall.

The Jefferson City fire department and State Highway patrolmen carried his body down on the outside of the prison.

The attempted escape came near northeast corner of the big penitentiary yard. The two tower guards who detected the prisoners were William Farr and Ike Broaden.

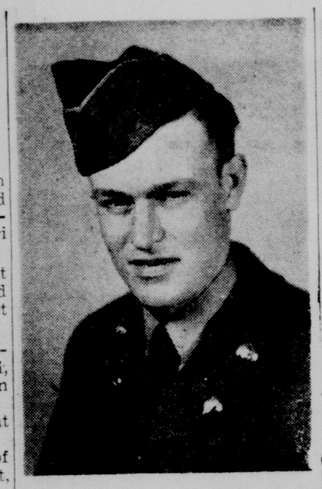

The guards were helped by deputy warden William P. Steinhauser, who shot from outside the prison.

Hickson had tried to escape once before. He was found several years ago hiding in a sycamore tree inside the walls. Another prisoner was with him that time.

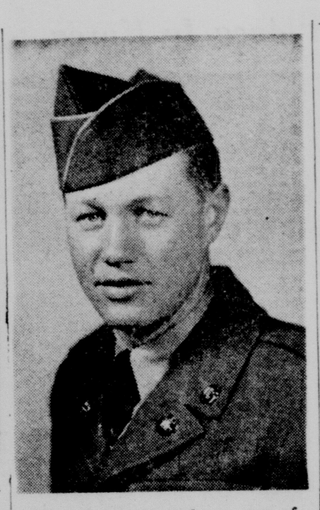

Ladder Used on Smoke Stack

Prison officials said the two men apparently picked up the ladder which had been used on the power house smoke stack and fastened ropes to it to get down the outside of the wall.

Pastor To Give Data On Crime To Washington

ST. LOUIS, March 24 —(AP)—The Rev. Holland B. London, the Church of Nazarene pastor who created a stir in Missouri by his anti-gambling crusade last year, plans to go to Washington Monday to testify before the Senate Crime committee.

He was not subpoenaed by the committee to appear at either of its St. Louis hearings.

He said today that many other clergymen and citizens had inquired as to why he had remained silent and that he decided he should appear voluntarily before the committee in Washington.

Rev. London stumped the state in his one-man campaign against crime. He reported during his tour that the late Charles Binaggio, slain Kansas City gang-leader, had boasted to him that Binaggio had Gov. Forrest Smith of Missouri "in his hip pocket."

"He said he was in contact with the governor more than anyone else in the state and had spent $200,000 helping elect him," the minister related.

Gov. Smith has repeatedly denied that there was any alliance between him and Binaggio.

Rev. London said he had received 47 letters in the past two days urging him to go before the committee in Washington.

Rev. Holland B. London, St. London, St. Louis, who is traveling to Washington next week to appear before the Senate crime investigating committee, paid a visit to Sedalia in the summer of 1949 and gave a talk before a called mass meeting, and later before a Pettis county grand jury after considerable trouble was had in getting him subpoenaed for his appearance.

After his appearance before the local grand jury he told a reporter he had "nothing to say."

"I believe this is one of the truly great automotive advances"

LET A PLYMOUTH ENGINEER TELL YOU ABOUT

PLYMOUTH'S new "Safety-Flow Ride"

"In the new Plymouth, now at your dealer's, we are introducing 'Safety-Flow Ride.' I'd like to talk about this new feature not as an engineer, but as a user. For two years I had it on my own personal car, while the development process was going on.

"Now the Plymouth car, as you probably know, has always had a wonderful ride, and we keep working on it—improving it in some way most every year. But I want to make it clear that 'Safety-Flow Ride' is in no sense a minor improvement. It's a big step ahead in automotive engineering—in my opinion, one of the greatest we've ever taken.

"Here's How It Works

"'Safety-Flow Ride' is made possible by a combination of engineering advances, including synchronous springing, scientific weight distribution and our new Oriflow shock absorbers. The Oriflows make a new use of hydraulic principles to take the bounce and wallop out of the bumps. The conventional shock absorber has always done that—and very well—but if you made an ordinary shock absorber with resistance enough for the worst roads, it would provide too much resistance for the best roads, and you'd get a stiff, unyielding ride on the smooth pavement.

"The new 'Safety-Flow Ride,' in effect, tunes itself to the condition of the road.

"When you hit a big bump or a hole, it provides extra resistance, so you're not thrown up and down but tend to continue in a level flow of motion. On the smooth pavement, this resistance relaxes and lets the soft action of the springs take over.

"Here's the Way It Affected Me

"When I first tried 'Safety-Flow Ride' on my own car, I was driving back and forth from the factory to a place in the country, over a real rough road. The difference was so great that it took me quite a while to get used to it. Before, I was always watching for the rough spots—steering out around them. But soon I found myself paying no attention to irregularities in the road. I began to sense, instinctively, that the bump wouldn't affect the ride or the steering. I was able to give my full attention to the traffic and intersections ahead—a real contribution to safe driving.

"Another thing I noticed was that I stopped worrying about any passengers that might be in the rear seat. I had no fear that I'd give them a toss by going over the rough places. There's a certain relaxation and peace of mind that this ride gives you.

"Now I could go on talking for hours, but after all, the only way you can really appreciate this ride is to experience it yourself. So, I hope that you'll get around to your Plymouth dealer's pretty soon and try out 'Safety-Flow Ride.' Then make up your own mind about it. I think you're going to be as enthusiastic as I am."

Threat Of Meat Strike Lifted

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP)—The threat of an immediate meat-packing strike was lifted off the sagging shoulders of the government's economic high commanders today as they held an important meeting at the White House on the future of the controls program.

At Chicago, the CIO Packinghouse Workers announced an extension to May 7 of their tentative wage agreement with the major meat-packing firms. It was due to expire tomorrow and a strike had been threatened for Monday. AFL and independent unions made a similar extension yesterday.

The three unions and the companies have agreed on a wage raise of 11 cents an hour, subject to approval of the government. Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston has refused to allow more than 3 cents of the increase because the other 8 cents would breach the present wage control formula of 10 percent above the level of Jan. 15, 1950.

The meat unions and the companies hope that before May 7 Johnston will have succeeded in setting up a new wage stabilization board, which would decide whether to grant more than 3 cents in their case.

Johnston attended today's White House meeting.

So did Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson and his general counsel, Herbert Bergson.

And so did Attorney General McGrath, his top assistant, Peyton Ford, and Solicitor General Philip Perlman.

Kefauver For Extending Probe

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP)—Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn) said today he may vote to extend the Senate Crime investigation beyond the end of this month.

But Kefauver, chairman of the crime hunting group, repeated that he doesn't want to continue as its head or even as a member of the five Senator committee.

His views were disclosed in a broadcast transcribed for use in his home state next week.

Before the Senate decides about continuing the present committee, Kefauver said, he wants it to consider "my proposition for a permanent, independent commission to report to congress on organized crime."

"If that is voted down," he said, "and the consensus of the majority is to continue the committee, I shall have no objections, but I shall decline to serve further."

"The big part of the Democrats, as well as apparently all the Republicans in the senate, want the committee to go on," the chairman said.

Gargotta Is On Bond At Tulsa

TULSA, Okla., March 24—(AP)—Kansas City gambler Gus Gargotta gave himself up today on a state vagrancy charge filed by authorities suspicious of his frequent visits to Tulsa.

Chief Criminal Deputy Bruce Lovelace says Gargotta and an associate were trying to set up a gambling game here.

Gargotta was released on $1,000 bond tonight and is scheduled for arraignment Monday morning. He sauntered into the sheriff's office and told Deputy Bert Lawson, "I understand you're looking for me."

The vagrancy charge carries a maximum penalty upon conviction of $100 fine and 30 days in jail.

His charge was filed following county attorney Lewis J. Bicking's announcement of a drive on "big shot gamblers and hoodlums moving into Tulsa."

Sheriff George Blaine also disclosed Friday that he has received several threatening anonymous letter recently.

He quoted one of them as saying, "We are going into business and stay here, regardless. This is no idle threat, so please be governed accordingly."

Boy 15 Problem For The Army

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., March 24—(AP)—March 24—Pvt. Allen Bozman, who turned 15 on March 2, posed quite a problem for the army.

Three days after Bozman enlisted at Fort Riley, Kans., last August, he was stricken with polio and hospitalized. Shortly afterward, his true age was discovered. Still, he was in the army, and the army cares for its men.

Last month Bozman was transferred to Percy Jones army hospital here. Soon he was able to be up and able to get around with a brace on his leg.

Returning from South Bend, Ind., after a furlough a few days ago, he applied for an allotment. He said that in South Bend he had married a 14-year-old girl.

The judge advocate's office at the hospital denied the allotment application. It held that Bozman was under age and hence his marriage was illegal.

Will Take Cook To Alcatraz

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 24—(AP)—U. S. Marshal Rex Hawks said today he will ignore an Oklahoma county district court order to turn badman Bill Cook over to the state and instead will transport the admitted killer to Alcatraz this week-end.

Cook Wednesday was sentenced to 300 years in Alcatraz by U. S. District Judge Stephen S. Chandler for the kidnap-killing of the five-member Carl Mosser family of Atwood, Ill.

District Judge Clarence Mills yesterday ordered Cook held for prosecution Monday on state charges of kidnaping and robbery in the Mosser case. Conviction could carry the death penalty. However, Hawks pointed out today Oklahoma could not force the attorney general to surrender Cook.

Cook will be confined to Alcatraz awaiting the report of an Imperial county, Calif., grand jury also considering kidnaping and murder charges against him. The sixth person he admitted slaying was Robert Dewey, 32, Seattle salesman, who was killed in southern California.

Missouri also is seeking Cook for murder in connection with the slaying of the five members of the Mosser family at Joplin. Their bodies were found at the bottom of an abandoned mine shaft there Jan. 15.

Is Bound Over In Bribe Case

CARTHAGE, Mo., March 24—(AP)—A Magistrate charged with accepting a $50 bribe from the Moose lodge at Joplin, was bound over for trial today in the Jasper county Circuit court.

The defendant, James B. Greer, was arrested last February 27 as he was leaving the lodge club rooms. Sheriff George Hickam said the magistrate had $50 in marked currency.

Jim Poynor, governor of the Joplin lodge, testified during the preliminary hearing that he had given Greer the marked money after the magistrate had solicited "protection" money.

R. M. Scott, prelate of the lodge testified during the hearing that until February 23, the lodge had maintained solt machines in the club rooms.

Greer was released under a $3,000 bond for the next term of court opening April 9. He already is at liberty under a similar bond awaiting preliminary hearing on a charge of soliciting a bribe. This preliminary hearing has now been set for March 30.

A Joplin attorney for about 25 years, Greer has been serving also as Municipal Judge and Police Judge.

Wide Publicity To Little Church

The little prefabricated church with the star windows designed by Neal O. Reyburn, 2217 West Third street, president of the Home Building Corp., is getting wide publicity. A picture of the little church and the following article appeared in the March 26, issue of the magazine "Quick."

"With U. S. church building at an all-time high, modern functional design was increasingly acceptable to congregations. Typical example the Church of the Good Shepherd in rura' Clay county Missouri. This prefabricated structure cost only $24,000, took just seven days to erect."

Sgt. Potter In Rest Area In Korea

Sgt. Billy Potter, standing, left, son of Mr and Mrs. R. N. Potter, 2118 East Broadway, and his buddies in the Communication troops, in the rest area in Korea. The boys were just getting ready to clean up their equipment and have it all layed out, but they stopped in their work long enough to have their picture taken.

Sgt. Potter has been in Korea since November 1, with the Infantry in the Third Division Command of Communications troops. He enlisted in March 1950, took his training at Fort Riley., Kas., and Camp Garden, Ga., where he was graduated as a military police, and just recently has been promoted to the rank of sergeant. He was graduated from Smith-Cotton high school in 1949.

Baffled At Costello Suite

NEW YORK, March 24—(AP)—Three men, one carrying a gun, tried unsuccessfully today to enter the 18th floor apartment of Frank Costello, reputed rackets ruler questioned this week by the Senate crime committee.

Costello told the committee—and millions of television listeners—that he kept from $40,000 to $50,000 in cash in the swank nine-room suite overlooking Central Park.

Police said, however, they learned from Mrs. Costello that all "valuables" had been removed from the apartment soon after Costello made the disclosure heard by the committee's television audience.

The pre-dawn visitors forced two elevator operators at gun point to take them to the lofty apartment, rang the bell repeatedly with no response, then departed hastily.

Martin Kelly, building superintendent, said Costello was in the apartment during the night but that he left about five hours after the mysterious visit. First reports to police said he was not there during the night.

Police officials voiced no official opinion as to whether the visitors were bent on robbery or possibly some kind of gangland vengeance.

One policeman expressed an informal belief the visitors were "young punks" who hoped to hold up Costello and take the money—unaware it had been moved to a new hiding place.

The police were attempting to locate Costello to determine whether he could give any reason for the visit.

Death Toll Reaches 58 By Saturday

By The Associated Press

Violence had accounted for at least 58 deaths Saturday as the nation began its annual Easter observance.

Since 6 p. m. (local time) Friday, 44 persons died in traffic accidents. Another 14 were killed in a variety of accidents other than traffic.

Easter generally is considered a stay-at-home holiday and this was expected to be reflected in a comparatively low traffic toll.

In 1950, an average of 95 persons a day were killed in traffic accidents in the United States. However, this number included persons who died later of injuries.

Seven persons had been killed in Missouri traffic accidents.

Grass Fires Cause Numerous Runs

The fire companies apparently are headed for a new record in answering fire alarms in Sedalia. The total number of runs made by the local fire laddies up to the middle of Saturday afternoon was 165.

Little rest was experienced between 2:08 and 3:39 o'clock by the fire companies, six runs being made in that period of time. Each run was where burning dry grass had gotten beyond control and help was summoned to extinguish the blaze.

At 2:08 o'clock the first run was to 1207 South Stewart avenue; 2:29 o'clock to 652 East Eleventh street; 3:23 o'clock to Eleventh street and New England Drive; 3:35 o'clock to 1921 East Fifteenth street; 3:37 o'clock to Twenty-Sixth street and Kentucky avenue; 3:39 o'clock to 714 East Broadway.

NEW YORK, March 24—(AP)—General MacArthur's offer to talk peace with the Chinese Communists today knocked down prices of stocks and commodities.

On the New York Stock Exchange, prices dropped more than $3 a share with $1 and $2 losses frequent. Rails, aircrafts, steels, and motors were in the forefront of a selling wave that ran through the market just before the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost $1.20 at $92.70. The fall was one of the sharpest of the year.

Missouri Pacific preferred fell $2.50 at $28.62, Douglas Aircraft $3 at $93, Bethlehem Steel $1.75 at $53.25, Chrysler $1 at $77.62, and American woolen $2.12 at $38.87.

Waive Hearing In Murder Case

FORSYTH, Mo., March 24—(AP) Three of the four persons charged with first degree murder in the slaying of farmer Charles Cobb will go on trial in the April term of the Taney county Circuit court.

The three, Mrs. Ruby Cobb, widow of the slain hill farmer, and her neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clark, waived preliminary hearing today before Magistrate J. L. Morrow.

Clarence Wood, 65-year-old hire man of the Clark couple, appeared, but his preliminary hearing was postponed until April 6.

Held at Springfield since their arrests, the four arrived amid a holiday setting. A hill fiddler was entertaining the crowd of 150 gathered on the court house lawn and the American Legion Auxiliary was selling refreshments.

All were returned to Springfield after the hearing.

The 65-year-old Cobb was beaten to death as he was preparing to milk his three cows last February 20.

Two of these cows, officers working on the case have disclosed, figured in an installment plan payment to dispose of the farmer.

Prosecuting Attorney H. F. Owens Jr. said statements of the two women indicated Mrs. Cobb had signed a mortgage on the two cows to insure payment of $600 as the price for slaying Cobb.

Involved in the case, officers said, were a double love triangle and a civil suit over a farm.

Sheriff Glenn Hendrix of Greene county who has been investigating the case along with Sheriff George Hunt of Taney county, said Mrs. Clark had told him she loved Clarence Wood, and that Mrs. Cobb had expressed her love for Carl Wood, 72, brother of Clarence Wood.

Cobb had been an important witness in a civil suit involving the ownership of 103 acres of land deeded to the Clarks by the late John B. M. May, who formerly lived at the Clark home.

Mickens-Allen Marriage

The East Sedalia Baptist church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Jane Arlene Mickens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mickens, 216 West Fifth street, and Mr. Robert Lee Allen, son of Mrs. A. B. Allen, of Kansas City, formerly of Sedalia, and the late Mr. Allen, on Sunday afternoon, February 18, at 2:00 o'clock. Before an altar setting of arrangements of mixed flowers and two seven-branch candelbara entwined with huckelberry, the double ring service was ready by the Rev. Walter P. Arnold, pastor of the church.

Miss Doris Mae Stott, organist, played a prelude of wedding music before the ceremony and accompanied Miss Winnie Graham, who sang: "Always," "Through the Years," and "Because." During the ceremony she played, "To a Wild Rose."

The bride, whose father gave her in marriage, wore a gown of white satin designed with fitted bodice buttoned down the front with tiny satin buttons, a sweetheart neckline and long tapering sleeves pointed at the wrist. The voluminous skirt lengthened into an aisle wide train. From a little cap of tatted lace, which had been made for her sister, the first baby in the family and later worn by the bride as a baby, was fashioned her bridal cap. The cap was trimmed with lilies-of-the-valley and from it cascaded her fingertip veil of bridal illusion. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds and her ornament was a single strand of pearls.

The maid of honor, Miss Joann Merriott, was in a gown of orchid satin styled similar to that of the bride. She wore a shoulder length veil of orchid illusion and carried an arm bouquet of dark pink carnations tied with green satin streamers.

Miss Patty Lee Edwards, of Sedalia, and Mrs. Norma Jean Severs of Kansas City, cousins of the bride, lighted the candles. They were in identical taffeta gowns of pastel green shade fashioned with fitted bodices and full floor length skirts. They were hair corsages of pink carnations.

Mr. Archie Allen, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Ushers were Mr. Harold Mickens and Mr. Kenneth Mickens, brothers of the bride, Mr. Jack Edwards and Mr. Robert Nicholson.

The bride's mother wore a dress of navy blue crepe with gray accessories and her corsage was of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a wine colored suit with navy accessories and her corsage was of white carnations.

The reception was held in the church parlors following the ceremony with Miss Patti Joe Howard and Mrs. Corkey Wharton serving the cake and Mrs. Charles Elgin of Independence, Mo., serving the punch to about 100 guests. Miss Betty Jane Bradley was in charge of the guest book.

The couple left for a wedding trip to New Orleans, La. For traveling the bride chose a navy blue suit with white blouse and navy accessories. Her corsage was of white rosebuds.

The bride is a graduate of Smith-Cotton high school in the class of 1948 and was employed by Dr. Floyd Lively in Sedalia, and is now employed with the Lively Optical Service in the Bryant building, in Kansas City.

The couple is now residing at 3660 Jefferson, Kansas City, Mo.

Those attending from out-of-town were Mrs. A. B. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Allen and son, Stevie, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Staggs and children, Deborah and Coleen, Misses Sue Marie and Virginia Beard and Mr. Owen Beard, of Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lankard and children, Carl, Judy and Donnie, Mrs. Wallace severs, Mrs. Alice Hill and grandson, Mike, Alene, Mr. and Mrs. James Hill and son, of Kansas City, Kas., Mr. Gregg James of Wichita, Kas., Mrs. Janice Naser and son, Jowy of Chicago, Ill., Miss Rebecca Entz and M. Sanford Peck of Kansas City, Mo.

Miss Jo Ann Merriott and Miss Patty Edwards, 821 West Tenth street, gave a miscellaneous shower for Miss Mickens February 10 at the Edwards home at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

In the dining room, the table was centered with a floral arrangement of spring flowers. Streamers were criss-crossed and from them hung balloons, cascading over the edge of the table. In each balloon was a verse giving Miss Mickens a clue to where she would find a gift.

Refreshments of individual white iced cakes, whipped jello and coffee, with nut cups and favors, were served.

Invited guests were Miss Marjorie Liebel, Miss Betty Jane Bradley, Miss Patti Howard, Miss Alma Hall, Miss Minnie Graham, Miss Jerrie Johnson, Miss Juanita Means, Miss Katy Brown, Miss Virginia Williams, Miss Betty Brown, Miss Peggy Thomas, Mrs. Jasper Mickens, Mrs. Kenneth Mickens, Mrs. George Franklin, Mrs. Forrest Merriott, Mrs. E. Singer With Orchestra

An added attraction with Tommy Dorsey's orchestra, who is really an attraction, is Francis Irvin, who has appeared in movies, on the radio, musical stage plays and is now singing with this orchestra. Tommy Dorsey, his orchestra and the red haired singer, Miss Irvin, will be at Convention hall, Liberty park, Monday night, April 1.

Popular Singer With Orchestra

A beautiful gal with an equally wonderful voice, lovely Frances Irvin will appear with the Tommy Dorsey orchestra when it plays at Convention hall, Sedalia, on Monday, April 1.

Frances first started in show business in her native Amarillo, Texas by winning a state talent test with the help of her voice, her dancing and her flowing red hair. The award for winning the contest was a trip to Hollywood where Frances received a screen test and immediately started doing scenes with Rita Hayworth in "Cover Girl."

Frances has worked on many motion picture lots since her part in "Cover Girl." Among them are United Artists, Republic, and Columbia.

She also found time to be on two radio network shows — the Lucky Strike program with Don Ameche, and Breakfast in Hollywood. While doing radio work, Frances also managed to squeeze in some television, including David Street's show, "Music M.C."

Among Frances' principal desires is the legitimate musical field, and she got her chance by doing one of the starring roles in the hit musical "Tongue in Cheek," at the Las Palmas Theater in Hollywood. It was while she was starring in "Tongue in Cheek" that Sherman Marks persuaded her to join his "Salute to Gershwin" show. Her appearance on the Dorsey bandstand marks a new step forward in the career of gorgeous Frances Irvin.

Your Wardrobe

By Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

SUMMER WARDROBES SHOULD be shopped for now. Of course, at the beginning of any season you should go through your last year's wardrobe and see what you have that can be worn. It is smart to make a list of these things, particularly your accessories. Often you find that you have some shoes and a bag, or a hat that is in excellent condition and therefore your budget will allow you to buy a good dress or summer suit. The summer is a long season and requires many more types of clothing as a rule, than any other season. For this reason, you should consider all the possible activities anticipated and your vacation then guide your shopping accordingly. I don't mean of course that you should rush out and buy every summer dress item you'll be needing now, but do plan your wardrobe and select your basic items as soon as possible. A well-planned wardrobe does pay excellent dividends.

Since screens are used very often to create dining alcoves or for a nursery section in the large bed room; they can be given a smart new look with unexpected, but effective use of wallpaper.

A screen covered with the same paper as used on the walls brings the design from the wall into the room.

They could be covered with plain colored wallpaper, or painted, embellished with gay, cut-outs from an exotic pattern.

The screen might be covered entirely with cut-outs such as animals or nursery rhyme characters.

A dark green ground wallpaper with Chinese figures in their red, black and gold colorings used to cover an out-moded screen, with the framework painted a Chinese red; will make a focal point in any room.

Music Club Program By Quartet

A finely balanced mixed quartet of artists from the voice studio of Mrs. Latonia Barnett, Conservatory of Music of Kansas City, was presented on Wednesday afternoon at the Helen G. Steele Music club.

Under the direction of Mrs. Barnett, a former Sedalian, the quartet presented "In a Persian Garden," Liza Lehmann's famous setting of selections from the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam, Pearl Roemer Kelly gave her usual fine performance as accompainst for the group and excellent support for the voices.

A capacity audience filled Heard Memorial clubhouse for the program. The members of the quartet are Roberta Maness, soprano, Lillian Armijo, contralto, Jack Craig, tenor and Robert Downs, baritone Particularly noteworthy numbers form the song cycle were the first quartet, "Come, Fill the Cup," and "In the Fire of Spring," the soprano and tenor duet, "A Book of Verses Underneath the Bough," the baritone solo, "Whether at Naishapur or Babylon," and the well-known tenor solo, "Ah, Moon of My Delight, That Knows No Name." The song cycle closed with a quartet setting of "Alas, that Spring Should Vanish With the Rose!"

Mrs. E. F. Yancey, life-president, presided at the meeting, of St. Louis, and presented her guest, Mrs. E. A. Duensing, of State Federation of Music Clubs. Mrs. Duensing gave an interesting preview of the Federation convention which is to be held April 3-7, at the DeSoto hotel in St. Louis. Mrs. Yancey also had as her guests Mrs. W. B. Grubb, president of the Olive Ewing Dahlamyer Music club of Jefferson City, and Mrs. Victor Lyon, president of the Fifth District of the Federation.

An announcement was made by Mrs. A. B. Potts concerning the annual Federation Day program, which will be next Wednesday, March 28th, at 2:00 o'clock. Mrs. Dan Robinson is assisting chairman. The young people who won superior ratings in the Junior Music Festival, which was held on March 17th, will be presented in a program of piano solos, duets and vocal numbers. The festival is sponsored by the Missouri Federation of Music Clubs each spring, and students from most of the music studios of Sedalia enter the contests.

Annual Easter Egg Hunt

The annual Easter egg hunt at the Sedalia Country club was held Saturday morning at 10:00 o'clock, with about 45 children attending. The eggs were hidden outside on the grounds of the club.

After the hunt the children went to the dining room and were served refreshments. Placed intermittently on the long T-shaped tables were large Easter rabbits on either side of which were baskets filled with pussy-willows tinted pastel shades, yellow forsythia and tulips made of colored egg shells. Colored balloons hung from the ceiling. Also on the table were cut-out rabbits and chickens.

On each side of the door were large painted bunnies. On a table at the entrance were live rabbits placed in decorated cages.

It was a big morning for the little folk and one long to be remembered.

A Tule cyprus in Mexico, 36 feet in diameter, is believed to be older than any of the California redwoods, often referred to as the world's oldest living things.

S-C Finishes In 7th Spot At Kemper

The inexperienced Smith-Cotton high school track squad finished in seventh spot in the ten team, 24th Annual, Kemper Indoor Invitational Track and Field Meet at Boonville, Friday afternoon.

The ten teams fielded provided some of the top material in the state and they shattered four of the Kemper meet records with Gray of St. Louis Maplewood setting the pace, breaking the high and low hurdle marks and scoring 13 points or one half of Maplewood's total of 26, which captured the meet.

Butterfield set the new shot record by putting the 12 pound steel ball 46 feet and two inches. 1951 Chief Manager

Joe Imhauser, who for the past three years has been the mainstay on the Sedalia Ban Johnson Chiefs mound staff, has been named as playing-manager of the 1951 Chiefs by Cal Rodgers, sponsor of the team.

Chiefs Hold 1st Practice Of New Year

Imhauser Named Playing Manager For 1951 Season

The Sedalia Chiefs start practice sessions at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon on the ball diamond at Liberty Park under a new manager, Joe Imhauser. Imhauser was appointed the past week as playing-manager of the Chiefs by Cal Rodgers, who has overseen and co-sponsored the team the past several years.

Imhauser will succeed G. O. "Dutch" Hawley, who managed the Chiefs during the past two seasons, and led them to titles both seasons. Hawley surrendered his post because of business commitments, but will lend an experienced and helping hand whenever possible.

The Chiefs are still members of the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League, southern division, which they have won several times. The 1951 schedule is expected to be announced within the next few days. Sedalia's schedule will call for Wednesday night games at Liberty Park with a "taking turns" arrangemen' on the Sunday schedule of the park.

Teams in League

Twelve teams are listed in the league. Northern Division—Chillicothe, Macon, Unionville, Memphis, Milan, Kirksville and Brookfield. The Southern Division has Moberly, Columbia, Boonville, Mexico, Sedalia and possibly Jefferson City. Jefferson City, it is reported, does not have a sponsor for this season and may drop from the Ban Johnson play. If the Jays are dropped then Brookfield may be shifted to the Southern Division.

Vic Minert of Boonville, president of the league was a visitor in Sedalia Saturday evening and announced Walter Jessee has been appointed as commissioner for the Ban Johnson tournament this year The tournament is slated for Sedalia the last week of June and the first week of July.

Kansas City Teams to Particinate

Jessee announced teams of the Central Missouri League, teams from Kansas City and teams from Kansas will be invited to participate in the two weeks of baseball. President Minert also announced the league season will be divided into two divisions with play-offs being held in August and the winners to play the Kansas City champions for the state championship. The season will officially open May 20 and close on August 12.

The Chiefs will be built around such veterans as Bobby Brown, exceptionally good pitcher; Jerry Lumpee, of Warsaw, shortstop, who may go to the University of Missouri next year; Jim Bodenhamer of Warrensburg, who not only can play both infield and outfield but is also a good pitcher; Billy "Bones" Morgan, Ralph Waters and Bill Holst.

Sedalia has some fine ball players coming up who are expected to make the squad. All position are open, nothing has been assigned, nor will any assignments be given until those interested in the team can make a complete study of each player.

Several Veterans Missing

The Chiefs will miss from the lineup this season Carl Barbour and Big Jim Egbert, who are eliminated because of the age limit; Bob Dillard, who is in the Navy, Leon Nold now in the armed services and Ralph Walker who has turned professional.

The age limit is 17 through 21 and players as soon as they have been named must file birth certificates.

Sport Scraps

By D. Kelly Scruton

JUNIOR Legion players of several years ago are coming into their own as baseball managers. Joe Imhauser has been selected to become player-manager of the Sedalia Chiefs, while Jack Housel Slocum has been elected manager of the Teen-Age Blues for this season. Both new managers have called for practice of their teams this afternoon.

Both team managers have declared they expect to continue with their excellant brand of baseball in spite of the fact some of their stars left the team at the close of the season last year, because of the age limits. Indications are both teams will be well-supplied with baseball material.

Imhauser and Slocum both are well-known among the youthful ball players, and both have had a colorful career as players. There is no doubt in my mind that by using such men as both these managers, it will add spice to the teams.

IMHAUSER succeeds G. O. "Dutch" Hawley, well-known baseball player and manager who has handled the Chiefs for three years. Hawley is stepping aside from the team. However Hawley will be in constant contact with Imhauser offering him assistance and advice from time to time.

Dutch Howley

It was through Hawley that Ban Johnson returned to Sedalia and encouraged Cal Rodgers to take on the job of sponsoring the team, along with the co-sponsorship of the majority of business houses in Sedalia. He steered the team to achampionship the first year and repeated again in 1950.

Through his suggestion Mr. Rodgers took it upon himself to put considerable money into the team, and then obtained financial support from the various business establishments in Sedalia, who have made it possible for three years to field a real club.

The passing years have shown on Hawley in 1950, he has slowed considerably in his activity of baseball playing. While coaching on the third base line, he was the target of a hard-hit baseball which struck him in the head. Another time on the field he became so excited that he "fractured" his false teeth. He took a great deal of ribbing on both accounts, but says "Dutch," it all adds up I have slowed too much to get out on the foul line and coach a baseball club—you have to be just as quick there in dodging and ducking as you do as a player.

He will be missed this year on the field, but from time to time he will be sitting nearby offering suggestions to his worthy little successor—Imhauser

CLOSING of the Smoke House last week brings back memories of famous people who have played here in their careers as champions in billiards. Especially a World Champion three-cushion champion Johnny Layton, who was developed by the late C. J. McEniry.

"The Capital of the World" made famous by Layton who used to tell everybody when asked where he was from. His by-line would be "Sedalia, Missouri, The Capital of the World" and add "Meet Me at the Smoke House".

Layton is retired from the sport as a competitor, but he still is around and is giving expert instructions to the youngsters in St. Louis who desire to follow the game.

Then there was the world greatest pocket billiard chompion Ralph Greenleaf, and the three cushion champion Willie Hoppe, and Willie Mosconi, who held the title in pocket billiards. They have all visited Sedalia not for just an exhibition, but numerous times visited over for a week or two with "C.J."

K-State Takes West Play-Off In 68-44 Romp

KANSAS CITY, March 24—(AP)—Kansas State college's free-wheeling Wildcats, spinning on a balanced scoring attack, outclassed twice-national champion Oklahoma A. and M. 68-44 in the western N.C.A.A. finals tonight.

A prohibitive pre-tournament favorite, the Big Seven conference champions scored repeatedly off their fast break for a 37-14 halftime lead and there never was a time when 10,500 partisan fans figured the underdog had a chance.

Kansas State, which ranked No. in the final Associated Press poll, meets Kentucky, eastern play off victor 76-74 over Illinois, for the national NCAA crown in Minneapolis next Tuesday.

In a preliminary game for third place University of Washington beat Brigham Young University, 80-67. Oklahoma A. and M. which won the national title in 1945 and 1946, and was a finalist against Kentucky in 1949, lost for the first time in the western playoffs.

Kansas State, which has dominated basketball in the Big Seven the past several years, will be making its first bid for a national championship. In 1948, Coach Jack Gardner's Wildcats lost to Baylor in the western finals 60-52 and were beaten in the preliminary game in the national tournament in Madison Square Garden.

K-State finished its regular season with a 21-3 record and then beat Illinois 91 to 72 in a post-season game at Manhattan.

The University of Washington Huskies coordinated their height advantage with good shooting to bump Brigham Young University's Cougars 80 to 67 for third place in the Western NCAA playoffs tonight.

A capacity crowd of 10,500 turned out for the final game in the eight-team playoffs which featured Kansas State of the Big Seven and Oklahoma A. and M. of the Missouri Valley conference in the championship finals.

Bob Houbregs, 6-foot 7-inch center who led the scoring with 23 points, and six other Husky teamates laid down a steady barrage at the baskets that had BYU on the losing side almost from the start.

Mike McCutchen and Doug McClary each popped in 12 points and Frank Guissness got 11 for substantial scoring performances

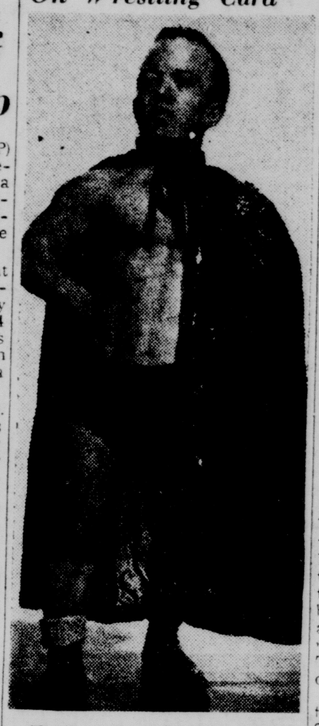

Roland Minson, 17 points, was tops for BYU.

The Pacific Coast champion Huskies were in complete charge after the first five and one half minutes of play.

Washington never was able to make a rout of it in the first half because the Cougars' Minson had his sights on the hoop for three straight baskets in one stretch and Mel Hutchins and Bob Craig each hit in spots.

Houbregs picked up 13 of his 23 points in the first half. Minson scored 11 and Hutchins 9 before the intermission.

Little Men Aren't Freaks

They are not freaks as some people say, but they are little men of iron. They are highly educated, well-developed physically and are real sport entertainers.

The main event will see Ray Eckert of California, Mo., meeting Dennis Clary, Houston, Texas, who has won a following among the wrestlers in Sedalia. Clary is a big man, well developed and exceptionally smart in wrestling.

Clary Has Solution

Eckert in his recent matches has come close to losing out to his opponents and Clary who has had an opportunity to witness his last three contests is confident he will know "just how" to handle Eckert.

The big California wrestler went to a draw with Sonny Meyers in his last appearance in Sedalia after a hectic one hour which brought the fans to their feet and for a time were in such a state of mind a riot could have easily been started.

Promoter Pearl Christy and the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion, are endeavoring to get a night in the week which will be satisfactory to all wrestling fans, and on request the matches have been switched to Friday.

Missouri Expects Best Tourist Year

CHICAGO, March 24—(Special)—Missouri's multi-million dollar tourist-vacationist business in 1951 will probably be the best on record in the opinion of two of the state's outstanding authorities on attracting out-of-state visitors.

The men, engaged in "Selling Missouri Vacations" at the recent International Sports and Outdoor Show here, and their opinions are:

H. H. Mobley, director, division of resources and development of the State of Missouri:—"In Missouri we anticipate an excellent season. We have appropriated equal amounts of money to attract tourists and industry to our state."

R. J. Schaidnagle, executive director Lake of the Ozarks Association:—"We, in our area anticipate the largest season on record. Recreation, sports and tourists spent an estimated $204,000,000 last year in the state and we estimate $30,000,000 of that was spent in our area. Our 250 resorts will accommodate about 12,500 persons daily, and we have no closed fishing season."

Hatten Quiets Cardinal Bats

MIAMI, Fla., March 24—(AP)—Joe Hatten showed all of his old form and cunning tonight as the Dodgers overwhelmed the Cardinals 6-0, before 3,851 in Miami stadium.

The southpaw went seven innings, allowing four hits, and ran his streak of consecutive scoreless innings to 12.

The Cardinals, who haven't scored in 23 frames, were beaten in the fourth inning when Gil Hodges, playing for the first time since the arrival of his daughter, blasted Gerry Staley for a three-run homer.

Clyde King hurled the last two frames for Brooklyn while Ted Wilks went three for St. Louis. Rookie Bob Habenicht hurled the eighth and fanned Hank Edwards, Hodges and Bill Cox on called kes.

Seattle, Wash. Picked As The 1952 Host City For NCAA Cage Final

SEATTLE, March 24—(AP)—March 24—(AP)—The Times said today in a dispatch from Kansas City that the University of Washington will be host to the National Collegiate Basketball championships again in 1952.

The NCAA finals were held at Washington's Edmundson pavilion in 1949, with Kentucky beating Oklahoma A. & M. for the crown.

The official decision on the 1952 event will be reached in Minneapolis during this year's finals. It has been known for some time that Washington has been bidding for the '52 playoffs.

The Times story said one unnamed member of the NCAA committee in charge predicted that the Minneapolis meeting would bring a recommendation that the finals be played in Seattle. The recommendation would assure Seattle's selection.

"Barring unforeseen developments," said the story, Washington's athletic director Harvey Cassill "hopes to be notified that Seattle is the site of the '52 tournament by Wednesday night or before."

Wall Street is so named for the wall built there in 1653 by Gov. Peter Stuyvesant of New Amsterdam.

Eastern NCAA Play-Off

Kentucky Has Close Shave; Edges-Past Illinois, 76-74

NEW YORK, March 24—(AP)—Shelby Linville's nerve-stabbing goal in the last 13 seconds gave mighty Kentucky a close-shave 76-74 victory over Illinois tonight in the eastern finals of the NCAA basketball tournament.

The nation's No. 1 team and heavy title favorite thus qualified to meet the winner of tonight's game between Kansas State and Oklahoma A. and M. at Kansas City for the championship. The title game is set for next Tuesday night at Minneapolis.

Linville Replaces Spivey

Linville, who went in for stringbean Bill Spivey when the seven-foot all-America was benched on excessive fouls with three minutes to play, scored two spectacular lay-up goals in the pulsating finish before a crowd of 16,426 at Madison Square Garden.

Scrappy Illinois, fighting the two-time national champions right down to the cub, took the ball out of bound's after Linville's climatic goal and made a desperate effort to level the fray.

Don Sunderlage, the teams great captain and wheelhorse, took a shot at the basket but the ball bounded off the rim and for the third time in history Kentucky had shattered Illinois' hopes of a national title.

The Wildcats also eliminated the Big Ten representative in the 1942 and 1949 tournaments.

Illini Take Early Lead

The Western Conference champions, completely unawed by Kentucky's record of 30 victories in 32 games, played the Wildcats off their feet for the first half, leading u39-32 at that stage.

But Kentucky, with Spivey finding his delicate feather touch around the boards, stormed back to tie the score 39-39 after two minutes of the second half and set the stage for the tremendous windup

Dead-eye shooting from the outside by Jack McMahon gave St. John's a 71-59 victory over North Carolina State for the third place consolation.

The St. John's Redmen must feel like they're in a rut. They won third place last week in the national invitation.

For three-fourths of the way it was a see-saw battle—tied 14 times and no more than four points ever separating the contestants. Then St. John's busted the game wide open on the remarkable long range markman ship of McMahon with some help from Al McGuire and Ray Dombrosky.

Police Hold Ex-NYU Cager In College Fix

NEW YORK, March 24—(AP)—Don Forman, former New York University basketball player, was held tonight as a material witness in the still-growing scandal over the fixing of college basketball games.

Forman, who played guard at N.Y.U., is from Jacksonville, Fla.

He is the fourteenth player or former player involved in the investigation of bribery by gamblers trying to rig basketball scores at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Forman acted as an intermediary between gamblers and players on the City College of New York team during the past season, the prosecutor's office said.

General Sessions Judge Jonah J. Goldstein set $5,000 bail for the ex-N.Y.U hoop star.

Limits Placed On Bowl Games By NJCAA Board

HUTCHINSON, Kas., March 24—(AP)—Schools in the National Junior College Athletic Association will be permitted to play only one football bowl game a year and must collect at least 80 per cent of the gross receipts from that game.

Those rules were set up in a football control code adopted today by NJCAA officials at their closing convention session here.

The new rules will require several bowl game sponsors to revise their finacial arrangements if NJCAA teams are to play. The sponsors must pay all expenses of the promotion out of their 20 per cent share of the receipts.

No team may play in a post-season game unless at least two representatives of a member school are on the administrative committee of the sponsoring organization.

New bowl promotions must be approved by the NJCAA's executive committee at its annual meeting, and established bowls will be checked to see if they conform to the new rules.

March 18 was set as the opening date for the 1952 National Junior College basketball tournament which will be held in Hutchinson again under sponsorship of the Hutchinson American Legion.

The association also voted to organize a statistics bureau which will try to keep permanent records on top athletic teams and performance in junior college football and basketball.

All present officers were re-elected for another 1-year term. They are: Reed K. Swenson, Weber college, Ogden, Utah, president; Charles Sesher, Hutchinson, vice-president; George Hoy, Phoenix, Ariz., secretary; Robert P. Carter, Amarillo, Tex., treasurer.

"We are mighty glad to get Price, Gen. (Bob) Neyland recommends him highly and I am sure he will be a valuable addition to our staff," he said.

Meek had said yesterday that Price probably would join his staff, but no definite decision was reached until today.

Price was a member of Tennessee's 1942-46 and 47 teams. He is from Johnston, Pa., and is now coach at Cartersville, Ga., high school.

Doering Grabs Greensboro Lead With Steady 71

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 24—(AP)—Arthur Doering, 34-year-old Richmond, Va., professional, who has won only $800 on golf's winter tour this year, shot a steady par 71 today to take a three-stroke lead at the halfway mark of the $10,000 Greensboro open tournament with a 141 total for 36 holes.

Marty Furgol, Long Beach, Cal., pro whose first day 68 had given him the lead by two strokes over Doering and Jim Milward of Green Bay, Wis., fell off to 76 today and dropped into second place with 144.

He held a stroke lead over three other pros, Johnny Bulla, Verona, Pa., Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, and Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa., going in tomorrow's third round. The tournament winds up on Monday over the 6,718-yard Starmount Forest Country Club course, a par 71 layout.

Seven threats at 146, five strokes off the top end, were Glenn Teal, Jacksonville, Fla., Jack Shields, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Jack Burke, Houston, Tex.; Jay Hebert, Great Neck, Long Island, N. Y.,; Bob Toski, Northampton, Mass.; Earl Stewart, Jr., Dallas, Tex., and Roberto De Vicenzo, Buenos Aires.

Milard all but blew himself out of the tournament with a 78 for 148.

The gale like winds which swept the course yesterday again persisted and kept most scores well over par. A two under 69 by Shields was the day's best round.

Prominent casualties were a dime a dozen.

Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Vaa., seeking his third successive Greensboro win, needed 40-38-78 on a card dotted with seven fives for a 149 total.

Orphan Gets New Home

Linda Oliva, 4, (center) whose mother was killed in a plunge from a train in Arizona recently, smiles happily as her uncle Elbridge Hosmer gives her a pickaback ride around her new home near Vineland, N. J. The uncle and aunt Rose Hosmer (right) plan to adopt Linda, who survived the leap from the train in which her mother died. (AP Wirephoto)

HERE'S THAT MAN AGAIN!—Wouldn't you know that when they started building General Eisenhower's SHAPE headquarters near Paris, that famous wandering G.I., Kilroy, would turn up again? The legendary Yank, whose scrawled "Kilroy Was Here" appeared from Aachen to the Zyul River in World War II, still gets around. The perplexed Frenchman is Capt. Pierre Brunelle, chief of engineers in charge of the construction. (NEA-Acme photo by Staff Photographer Max Winter.)

PREPARING FOR THE 'PROSITS'—Women clean Bavarian steins as they get ready for the traditional "Salvator" springtime beer festival held in Munich, Germany.

Potato In Shape Of Easter Chick

Mrs. Edna Ison, 314 East Third street, brought to the Democrat-Capital business office Saturday a tiny Easter nest on which sat a rare kind of hen surrounded by colored Easter eggs. The little hen was a potato and had grown into the shape of a chicken even to its little bill. Of course Mrs. Ison had added a few tail feathers.

The potato was grown by Mrs. Ison's cousin, Everett Scarbrough, near Longwood and was given with a lot of other potatoes to her sister, Miss Gladys Tomlinson, 900 East Thirteenth street. When Miss Tomlinson gave Mrs. Ison some of the potatoes the funny little hen was among them. Mrs. Ison had kept the potato two months because of its shape and thought that Easter time would be an appropriate time to show it off at the Democrat-Capital office.

Spring Run By Factory Here

Although many factories in Missouri and Illinois producing women's shoes are being closed temporarily, William Mathieson, vice-president, stated Saturday that production at Town & Country would continue at capacity throughout the spring run. These is at present a substantial amount of uncut orders on hand and reorders are being received daily from customers at a very satisfactory rate.

The style department has just completed detailing for this coming fall one of the strongest lines of Town & Country shoes ever presented. This line has been shown to many of the company's leading buyers and they have been unusually enthusiastic about the T & C shoes they will have for fall selling.

Over a period of eight years, Town Country has operated at full production. This record is outstanding in the shoe industry. Although top grades of leather an various materials used in shoemaking are being allocated by the government for the defense program, Town & Country has substantial inventories of all needed supplies on hand. In addition to this, commitments have been made with well-known suppliers who can be relied upon to furnish materials needed for future full-scale production. From all indications, employment at T & C will be at an all-time high for the fall run which gets under way in June.

Pvt. James L. Skaggs, husband of Mrs. J. L. Skaggs, 406 North Grand avenue, Sedalia, will soon complete 14 weeks of basic training here with a unit of the 6th Armored division. As a trainee, he received six weeks basic training in the fundamentals of army life and the use of infantry weapons.

Carriage bodies were mounted on steel springs around 1670, according to the National Geographic Society.

Moscow Tries a Phony Revolt to Grab Iran

Cominform Behind the Move To Seize British Oil

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Soviet Russia is maneuvering to seize Iran through a phony internal "revolution," Czechaslovak style, according to Allied intelligence reports from the Middle East.

The Cominform is said to be behind the latest outbreak of Iranian "spontaneous" demonstrations demanding the nationalization without indemnity of British-controlled $58,000,000 Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.

One of the world's richest oil-producing countries, Iran is also the key hinterland to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's strategic defenses in the Middle East.

Thirty Red divisions—three of them Polish armored units—are said to be based on the 1500-mile Soviet-Iranian frontier. Nevertheless, it is considered unlikely that Moscow would provoke a general war at this time through armed invasion of Iran.

* * *

A clue to the Cominform's strategy, however, is believed to be contained in secret instructions beamed by Radio Moscow to the outlawed pro-Communist Tudeh Party Feb. 16. A copy of the instructions was recently received by U. S. intelligence.

The Kremlin, according to the broadcast — one of several — was able to forecast a month in advance the latest round of "spontaneous" anti-government demonstrations in Iran.

Although the first Red-inspired riot occurred before the Iranian Majlis (Parliament) on March 16, Moscow radio announced a month in advance that "Mass meetings are being held throughout the country, at which the participants demand the nationalization of the oil wealth of Iran."

Stating that the position of the "British imperialists" in Iran "becomes ever more unstable," Moscow was also able to predict that the Majlis would enact the law to expropriate British and U. S. oil interests.

* * *

New evidence has also come to light which would indicate that the recent assassination of Premier Gen. Ali Razmara—one of the ablest Iranian statesmen since the war—was inspired by the Red Tudeh Party rather than by a group of religious fanatics as it was first believed.

Threats of violence which circulated in Teheran following the killing of the Premier prompted even many of the moderate Deputies of the Majlis to vote for nationalization.

The Iranian Government has long been aware of the existence in the country of a vast Soviet espionage network. The hub of the network is the huge fortress-like Soviet Embassy located on Churchill avenue in Teheran, the capital. It is directed (or was directed until recently) by two MVD agents, I. N. Yakomin and Col. Nikolai Belevitch, who are officially employed as minor secretaries of the Russian embassy.

The existence of this widespread Soviet espionage ring in Iran was confirmed by Gen. El Campensino in a conversation I had with him recently in Paris.

* * *

One of the Red heroes of the Spanish civil war, Gen. El Campensino escaped to Russia in 1938. But like many other former Spanish Loyalists he soon incurred the Kremlin's displeasure and was banished to slave labor in Moscow's widespread net of concentration camps.

He escaped and reached Iran safely only to fall into the web of Moscow's spy ring. Under the eyes of the Iranian police he was transported by the MVD back to Russia. He escaped again in 1949.

Gen. El Campensino charges that Iran is the main center of Soviet intelligence agencies operating in the Middle East. Under cover of the Russian Embassy and numerous trade missions, thousands of MVD and Cominform agents have been able to secure legal means of infiltrating the political and economic life of the country.

Soviet citizens are also in direct control of the Tudeh Party which went underground after it had been charged with sharing in an attempt on the life of the Shah.

* * *

The present trouble in Iran is ostensibly due to a dispute between the government and the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co., whose concession does not expire until 1993.

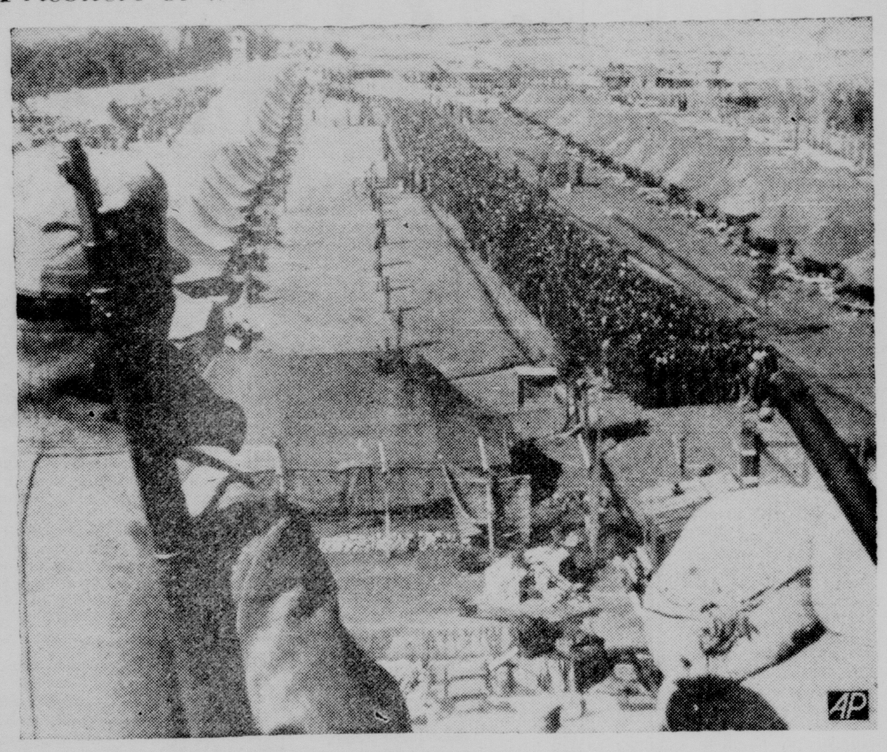

The Iranians claim 50 per cent of the company's profits. Pointing to high expenses for investments, repairs, and wages—the highest paid in Iran—the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co., though ready to negotiate an increase in oil royalty rates, is not willing to disgorge 50 per cent.

Obviously taking advantage of the deadlock, Moscow is stimulating tension, strikes, demonstration and acts of violence to pave the way for an internal "revolution" in Iran and the seizure of power by the Communists.

'It's Always Lonely on a Barricade'

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK—(AP)—Somewhere in Korea weeks ago an American soldier picked up an enemy propaganda leaflet.

Ever since then the questions it raised have haunted him and members of his infantry squad.

The faded leaflet—it is on my desk now—is a greeting from "the Chinese people's army volunteer forces" to the American troops. It wished them a Merry Christmas and a peaceful New Year and asked:

"Why are you here slaughtering the Korean people and burning their homes down—freezing and dying 5,000 miles from home where you belong with your families? Why aren't you enjoying a turkey dinner like the Wall Street financiers who sent you here to fight for their profits?

"We do not want to fight you, and we bear you no ill-will, knowing that you, like us, are ordinary laboring people and that you have been duped by American warmongers and their Wall Street bosses.

"We only want you to go home, so that we Korean and Chinese people can build the lives we want and live in peace."

Somewhere in Korea Sgt. Donald Caine of the Eighth Cavalry regiment sat down and wrote a letter in pencil. He put the leaflet in the envelope and mailed it to me.

"We realize that enemy propaganda is one of their greatest weapons," he wrote. "But in our position how can we help but believe parts of this? We'd like for you to help us get an answer to some of these questions."

Was Not True

I don't feel I'm the one to give the answers. But here is my reply to Sergeant Caine and the boys in the Fourth Squad of the First Platoon of the First Battalion of the Eighth Regiment of the First U. S. Cavalry Division, fighting somewhere in Korea since last July:

"That leaflet would trouble any honest man if it were true. But it isn't true. And it isn't simply an earnest plea for peace, written by one soldier to a soldier on the other side.

"It is the effort of a skilled propagandist. He wants to confuse you, to make you homesick, to make you doubt your cause and feel your sacrifices are useless and unnecessary.

"If he should succeed in making a majority of American soldiers feel this way, we will have to pull out of Korea entirely. And, in time, I think that means we will have to fight a third world war in our own homeland—and our own families will become the refugees.

"You aren't fighting for the profits of Wall Street financiers—or just to save Seoul or Taegu. You're fighting for a chance to keep war forever away from your own town—Main Street, U.S.A.

"Of course, it is true the average Chinese soldier doesn't in his heart bear you any real ill-will. You probably don't bear him individually any ill-will either. Soldiers in any war rarely hate each other on a personal basis.

"I know the word freedom may sound ponderous and hollow in ears filled with the noise of crunching mortars. But it is a basic word—basic as hunger and fear. And freedom is your goal. Eventual freedom in the world from war and fear and hunger.

"You came into Korea under a blue and white flag of the United Nations, pledged to bring unity and freedom to that country. Why is the Chinese so-called "volunteer" there? He came under the Red flag of real slaughter—the slaughter of the long dream of Korean independence.

"And if he wins there won't be just Korean independence that will disappear. Step by step the Red armies of China and Russia will march across other countries unable to defend themselves alone—and gradually swallow the world piecemeal.

"That would be quite all right, too, if it meant a better life finally for us all. But Communism hasn't been able to do that anywhere. Freedom has always brought more happiness than has slavery. And it is better to fight for a free world than a slave one.

"It is a lie that the Korean people want you to go home. They want you to stay and help them win a real peace. They dread the Chinese, and you know it.

"The truth is you are a military pioneer, fighting for the first time on a barricade defending all mankind's yearning for a final world peace. It's always lonely on a barricade, but no soldiers ever fought to hold a higher wall of hope.

"And if you hold it, the race of man will honor you forever."

Marshal Petain of France Refuses Freedom

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

PARIS—The French government is in a quandary regarding Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, 96 years old and still confined in the old fortress on the health-resort Isle of Yeu. The aged marshal is serving a life sentence for having collaborated with Hitler as head of the Vichy government, but the French government would like to release him. Petain, however, refuses to be released. He is too comfortable, gets too many sympathy packages from the U. S. A. and furthermore has a very special reason for not wanting his freedom.

Illustrating that reason, here is an actual conversation between Petain and his wife as told by a priest who visits the marshal.

The fortress guard, approaching Petain where he sat reading, announced: "Marshal, your wife is here."

"Tell her I don't want to see her."

"But she insists on seeing you."

"Just the same, tell her I don't want to see her."

The guard shifted uneasily, finally remonstrated: "But I don't want to tell her that. It's embarrassing for me to give a lady such a message. Won't you please see her?"

"All right," Petain yielded, "provided you stay in the room with me and provided you only let her stay four minutes."

Madame Petain was then ushered in and stood beside her husband, who did not look up.

"Philippe," she finally said, "aren't you glad to see me?"

"Who is that woman?" Petain asked the guard.

"I'm your wife, Philippe. Aren't you glad to see me?"

"She says she's my wife," the marshal again addressed his guard. "I have no wife. Tell her to go away."

Petain went back to reading his book and the guard ushered Madame Petain out. When he came back, Petain remarked: "I told you not to let her stay more than four minutes, but I did it in two minutes." He seemed pleased with his strategy.

This is the chief reason why Petain is not released. He has sent word to President Vincent Auriol of France that he much prefers to remain where he is, rather than go back to his wife.

Italian Communism vs. French

There's a big difference between the setback to communism in Italy and its not-such-a-great setback in France. In Italy a score or more of the top Communist leaders have resigned from the party while 200,000 workers have failed to renew their party membership.

But in France, communism, at least numerically, is not on a decisive retreat. In fact, the coming election will probably see the Communist party retain its present position with approximately one-third of the voters and the largest single block of deputies in parliament.

There are several reasons for this. One is that French communism is more lackadaisical than in Italy. French Communists don't store up secret arms to fight against their country and many probably would defend their country if Russia should invade. Second, many French workers have signed as Communists under pressure from shop stewards and are not Communists at heart; while many farmers vote Communist, not because they believe in it, but because they are just perpetually agin the government.

Another important reason for the difference in the French and Italian battle against communism is in the administration of the Marshall plan in France and Italy.

It's difficult to realize that there could be such a difference in the American administration of the same program in two different countries, but there is.

U. S. Propaganda

In Italy for instance, Ecadministrator Leon Dayton has made public speeches encouraging the Italian government to cooperate in using ECA funds for housing, land reform, and to help the workingman generally. In France, however, ECA money was poured in at the top to help factories get back in production, and while ECA has thus helped employment, the workingman at the bottom doesn't see where he has got any benefit. So he votes Communist.

Milton Katz, ecadministrator in France, probably appreciates this failure. But he's newly appointed, and so far hasn't done anything about it.

In Italy, meanwhile, Frank Gervasi, in charge of ECA public information, has done a superb, imaginative job of getting the Italian worker to understand housing, land reform, and other benefits which come from the United States. Gervasi is publishing magazines, now sold on the newsstands not with an American label on them, but as regular Italian periodicals. They have a large circulation and pack a powerful wallop in undermining communism and making friends for the U. S. A.

In contrast, Robert R. Mullen, now head of Marshall plan information for the entire ECA, proposed a unique French publicity stunt to Helen Kirkpatrick, former ECA information chief in France. Learning that French workers usually go to work on bicycles, then hang their bicycles from the ceiling, Mullen proposed:

"We will get two million yo-yo tops with the map of France and 'vive La France' painted on one side, and on the other side a message telling how France was rebuilt through the Marshall plan. Then we'll hang a top from every bicycle and when the French worker goes home he'll take a yo-yo top to his children. Thus, two million French families will be talking about the Marshall plan."

Miss Kirkpatrick diplomatically scotched her boss's idea. She knew such an array of yo-yo tops among cynical French workers would make the United States the laughing stock of all France.

Note—On the other hand, John Paul David, a French artist, has done a terrific job of puncturing Communist propaganda with a poster campaign. Encouraged by ex-Premier Rene Plevin, David has devised such poster-slogans as "The Dove That Went Boom," and "Don't draft us for 18 months. We want to serve three years as in Russia." The latter was especially effective in combatting the Communist drive against 18 months military service in France.

Look For These Qualities When Shopping For a Wife

The young man who is looking for a wife ought to be sure he is looking for these qualities in the girl he dates:

One. A good disposition. Nothing so affects a man's happiness in marriage as the disposition of his wife. A woman with a good disposition stays attractive through the years. A woman with a mean or unhappy disposition grows less attractive the older she gets.

Two. An interest in homemaking. A girl who feels she is too bright to bother her head about housekeeping may have a top-flight career ahead of her. But it won't be as a homemaker. She'll never do that job any way but haphazardly if she feels above it.

Three. A sense of humor. That's the thing that keeps a woman from being dull company when the honeymoon is over.

Four. A spirit of adventure. Most men have it, so it is pretty important for a wife to have it, too. Otherwise she is always holding back, fearful of new experiences, afraid to take a chance, actually afraid to live.

Must Like People

Five. A genuine liking of people. The woman who likes people enriches a man's life by the friends she helps make and keep, by the social life she creates, by the hospitality of their home.

Six. High ideals. A wife whose ideals are high brings real beauty and goodness into family life. Her influence is for the best and the whole family benefits.

Tomato Juice Comes of Age

NEW YORK—(AP)—Canned tomato juice, although it is just observing its 21st year on the mass market, is one of the largest sellers in the entire vegetable juice field.

Tomato juice was used primarily for babies and invalids in the 1920's. It was first canned on a mass production basis in 1931. In two decades the product has required almost 10 billion containers, according to figures announced by the American Can Co.

The Gold Mannequin

THE STORY: Tim Reese, a crippled veteran, has learned to walk again. A surgical operation made possible by his meager earnings as a fashion designer for "Jean Paul," an exclusive design shop, was successful. Tim, infatuated by the model Jean Roland, who is one of the partners of the shop, goes to New York and sees her win an award for the "Dress of the Year" and hears Paul Panciera, Jean's partner, take all the credit for designing it. But Tim is so much in love with Jean that she is able to allay Tim's suspicions and then she begins to see merit in a plan to operate a firm in partnership with Tim, with Mr. Panciera out of it. Returning to her apartment, she has a quarrel with Mr. Panciera and throws him out. The next morning Tim gets out of bed and in his exuberance walks for the first time without his canes.

* * *

THE sharp cold after the snow had made the city streets slippery and Tim Reese, who would have made but clumsy progress at best, walking without canes, was now compelled to move even more slowly and with more care, finding it necessary occasionally to steady himself against a building or a street post.

People on the street, puzzled at the uncertainty and awkwardness of his pace, turned to watch him, little suspecting that they were watching a man who was learning to walk all over again.

Jean Roland and Tim had planned to be together for lunch, but Tim, beside himself with happiness at discarding the canes, decided the good news should not wait. He would go to the shop and walk in on her.

He wanted to show her how swiftly they were moving in the direction of his dreams.

The shop was quiet, without customers, while the employes leisurely made ready for the day. Tim found Miss Major in the office.

"Wonderful Ball," he said as he entered the office. "Wonderful evening."

He was as offhand as he had been when he left her the evening before.

Miss Major obviously did not believe him. "Was Miss Roland surprised?" she asked blandly.

"Surprised and delighted. We had supper together."

"Really?" Her cynical disbelief was sharp and unmistakable. "I suppose she is expecting you now."

"Nope. This is another surprise. Where can I find her? Do you know?"

Miss Major was very bland. "You do not know where to find her?"

"We have a date for lunch but—" He leaned over the desk. "Have you ever been in love, Miss Major?"

"If I had been," Miss Major answered coolly, "I wouldn't therefore make a fool of myself."

* * *

TIM laughed. "But that's just the point. When you're in love you make a fool of yourself. That's the fun of it. I just plain forgot to get Miss Roland's phone and home address."

Miss Major smiled a bland smile. "She'll be in around 11."

"Holy mackerel! That's a hundred years from now! You call her and tell her Tim Reese wants to see her. Will you, please?"

"You're sure she'll know the name?"

Tim was disconcerted. "Don't you know the name?"

"Sorry." She shook her head mechanically. "Never heard of it."

Tim was more disconcerted. "How long have you worked here, Miss Major?"

"About five months."

"And you never heard of Tim Reese?" It suddenly struck him as entertaining. "I may not be any great figure in the dressmaking business, but heck," he laughed, "I figured I ought to be known around here at least."

* * *

MISS MAJOR sat up quickly, a sharp inquisitiveness lighting up the blandness of her face. "Are you a designer, Mr. Reese?"

"After a fashion. I designed that gown that won the award last night, although you'd never know it to read the papers this morning."

"Oh!" Miss Major stood up abruptly, her blandness gone. "You're YOU!"

"Yup. I'm me." Tim was amused.

"I'm terribly sorry, Mr. Reese." She was humbly apologetic. "I had no way of knowing who you were. Your name is never used here to my knowledge. Mr. Paul Panciera takes credit for all the designs."

A small smile of satisfaction came over her face. "In the trade, we've always known Mr. Panciera could not be the designer of those creations that have made this house so successful, but we could never find out who the designer was. You were kept a great secret, Mr. Reese."

"Well, the secret is out." Tim chuckled. "And maybe Mr. Panciera is too."

Miss Major moved quickly back behind the desk, got out a pen and paper. "Your name is Tim Reese." She wrote it down carefully. "And your address, Mr Reese—?"

"Miss Roland can always give you that."

"I know, but I have, if you don't mind, Mr. Reese, a very special reason of my own for asking for it now."

THE WAY TO CALVARY — Resurrection

The body of Jesus was placed in a sepulchre owned by Joseph of Arimathea who had permission from Pilate to bury Him there. Soldiers were placed on guard at the tomb, lest His body be stolen, and a great stone sealed the entrance.

But when Mary Magdalene and "the other Mary" came to anoint His body with spices, they found the stone rolled back, and "a young man clothed with a white robe," who told them, "He is risen."

And as they went to tell His disciples, wrote Matthew, Jesus met them, saying, "All hail!" And He bade them tell His disciples to meet Him in Galilee, where He came and bade them to go forth and teach all nations . . . "and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

Easter Comes To Troops With Prayers

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK—(AP)—Easter is a forlorn time to a man in a foxhole.

It is one of the saddest of seasons to the average soldier, particularly if he has had religious training.

Nobody likes to fight on a holiday. Who wants to be killed or wounded on Thanksgiving or Christmas? It doesn't make sense.

But Easter time hits many a soldier with a double nostralgia. He thinks long, long thoughts about his task. He looks at his rifle with distaste. He not only doesn't want to have to fire it—he wishes he didn't even have to touch it.

"How did I ever get in this strange trade?" he asks himself. And he ponders the oddity of battles being fought on a day dedicated to the resurrection of the Prince of Peace.

Many an American soldier must be thinking those long, long thoughts right now in faroff Korea. Easter comes to the troops in different ways.

On the actual frontline all the men can do is stick where they are . . . hope the enemy won't attack . . . and dream of home . . . and be a little sick in their hearts.

They look from their foxholes and see a land where men are at strife and nature is at peace. The brown on the hills is turning to green. Buds are bursting on the apple trees. Two sparrows are debating their nest.

"Why don't they call in an architect?" said one soldier lazily.

"If I was home now, Sally and I would be going to church," says another. "We always go at Easter." And in his ears he hears the call of distant bells in a quiet town.

"What if Jesus Christ came up that road instead of a Chinaman?" a third soldier says. They think that over a minute, and a corporal remarks:

"Nobody'd even know him."

"I would," says a young private softly. And his hand leaves his rifle and reaches over and touches the small Bible in his breast pocket.

Line Up for Chow

Back at regiment the men are lining up or chow.

"What—powdered eggs for Easter?" grumbles a soldier. Everybody laughs, remembering his childhood, and one says:

"You'd thing they would at least dye them a different color wouldn't you? That's the Army for you—no consideration for a man's feelings."

In a nearby tent the chaplains are holding services. This goes on for hours. Small groups of men are brought back from the front in turn, kneel together and are knit in prayer. Then they put on their helmets, pick up their rifles and trudge back to the arena of death. But they are comforted.

In cities there are the strangest Easter parades on earth. Uniformed American soldiers and white clad Korean civilians mingle as they enter the same churches and worship together. The soldiers have cleaned up as well as they can, and the cilivians are wearing their tattered best.

"I didn't know any of these people were Christians," says a new replacement with a note of wonder.

"Sure, more than a million of them are," replies a veteran. "Why, there are 37 Presbyterian churches in Taegue alone."

"That sure would make my grandmother mad," says another soldier, shaking his head, and adds in explanation:

"She used to knit for the Baptist missions."

They laugh and enter the church. They sit next to a civilian family—mother, father, four children. They hear the old, old story together. What difference does it make what tongue it is told in? And when they come out again into the sunshine together there is a new bond between the American soldier and the Koreans that none will ever quite forget—the sharing of the Easter dream.

The Doctor Says—

Excessive Perspiring May be Caused by Nervous Condition

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Writer for NEA Service

"What causes a person's feet to perspire the year round?", writes Mr. C. T. "Please explain why a person will perspire excessively even in cold weather," asks Miss S. C. "Ever since I can remember I have perspired a lot. I try not to perspire but I can't help it," says C. O.

It is easy to see how having a wet skin all the time could be an awful annoyance. C. O. hit the nail on the head when she said she tried not to perspire but it happened just the same.

The reason is that the sweat glands lying in the skin cannot be controlled by the brain: the amount of sweat which they empty out is regulated by the sympathetic and parasympathetic nervous systems which act independently of the mental processes. They also control such things as blushing which most of us have also discovered cannot be consciously prevented.

Why some people are troubled with excessive perspiration and others are not is hard to say. True, occasionally abnormal sweating is the result of carrying too much fat, a toxic goiter, incomplete recovery from a serious illness or some other easily identified physical cause, but ofter it exists alone and in people who are perfectly healthy.

In such cases the finger of suspicion points at the nervous element and perhaps this is partly inborn rather than anything acquired. Some victims of excessive perspiration, for example, also show other nervous signs such as tendency to easy blushing, a spastic colon, or just being "high strung."

If ,as is usually the case, no physical explanation can be found to account for the difficulty what can be done? Anything which acts favorably on the sympathetic nervous system including appropriate exercise, exposure to sunlight, or frequent bathing might be expected to help. In other words the state of the general health is reflected to some extent in the actions of the sweat glands.

Deodorants

Many of those who complain of perspiration do not have it all over, but in the hands, feet, arm pits or some other localized area. Frequently local applications with dusting powders or one of the deodorants and antiperspirants on the market helps.

Most of these contain an aluminum compound and seem to be perfectly safe. Finally, it may be said that worry about excessive perspiration certainly doesn't help any, and quite possibly may make it worse.

Chess Tourney Planned

LONDON—(AP)—An international chess tournament—celebrating 100 years of such affairs—will be staged in England starting May 26. Twelve foreign masters and four from Great Britain will play against each other for 28 days for $2,800 in prizes.

Although some scholars place the origin of the game of chess as far back as 5,000 or 6,000 years, the first international tournament was not staged until 1851.

The event was originated in conjunction with the World Exhibition in London by Howard Staunton, an Englishman then universally acclaimed as the chess champion of Europe.

Paris Goes In For Type-Casting Sparrow Plays Part Of Sparrow

By Rosette Hargrove
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS —(NEA)— The Parisan public will soon be able to judge whether pint-sized Edith Piaf is as talented an actress as she is a realistic singer. She has been given the title role in "La P'tite Lili," a new musical comedy.

She'll play the part of a Paris "sparrow," or street singer. That is exactly what Edith Piaf was when she started her career.

Author Marcel Achard says Piaf is a natural. He declared that from the very first rehearsal she instinctively responded to stage directing. Piaf, he says, was his main inspiration when he started writing "La P'tite Lili."

Broadly speaking, the musical is written around the theme of the eternal lovers, Tristan and Isolde. Although it is essentially a love drama set to music, there is ample comedy and lots of tuneful songs which promise to be as great hits as any Edith Piaf has launched over the 15 years she has been singing.

* * *

"My characters are all little people, not heroes," explains Archard. "They say simple lines, sing simple songs expressing simple thoughts and reactions. The play is also a protest against suicide."

Co-starring with Piaf is Robert Lamoureux, another newcomer in the theatrical world. Lamoureux recently burst into fame as a radio performer over the national network. Before that he had appeared in a comic one-man act in cusic halls in the provinces. He is young, dynamic and handsome.

Also in the cast is Eddie Constantine. An American, born in Los Angeles, Constantine was known as a radio performer in the U. S. He met Piaf when she was singing in New York. At the expiration of her contract, he accompanied her back to Paris. In the last few months they have appeared together on a tour which took them to the French provinces, Belgium and Switzerland.

* * *

Archard stresses the fact that the majority of actors in "La P'tite Lili" have had music-hall experience.

"I think vaudeville is a marvelous school for an actor," he says.

Glamor is supplied by Jeannine (Praline) Marcais, who is also making her debut on the legitimate stage. Until recently Praline held the title of the most glamorous mannequin in Parisian high-fashion circles. A tall willowy blonde with an 18-inch waist, she was always designated by courturier Pierre Balmain, for whom she has been working over four years, to wear his most alluring and luxurious evening creations.

In "La P'tite Lili," Praline's role consists merely in looking chic and beautiful in a stunning evening gown and saying "Do you love me?" and "Okay" with a fascinating French accent.

"A very minor part, I know," she said, shrugging her shoulders, "but one must start somewhere."

It is because of her that "sparrow" Piaf attempts to commit suicide. But it all ends happily—as it always does in the musical comedy world.

Edith Piaf: for this sparrow a happy ending.

"Preposterous to say we seek world domination! Why, even I wouldn't promise a thing like that!"

"Rice" Made From Tapioca

NEW DELHI—(AP)—A demonstration plant for the experimental production of "artificial rice" is in operation under government auspices, Natural Resources and Scientific Research Minister Sri Prakasa stated in response to a question in parliament.

Prakasa said the plant processes 300 pounds of the synthetic foodgrain daily. Establishment of a factory equipped to produce five to seven tons daily is "under consideration," Prakasa added. The artificial rice contains an estimated three times more starch than milled rice. Tapioca is the principal ingredient.

They said increases in costs and wages would increase the roads' expenses by more than $950,000,000 over previous estimates.

Gets Name Back After 30 Years

PITTSBURGH—(AP)— Vincenzo Michele Vinciguerra is going to get his wish—to die with the name he had when he was born. More than 30 years ago he came to this country as an immigrant from Italy. Shortly afterwards he got the court to change his name to plain "Vince."

And as plain "Vince" he prospered as an insurance agent. Not long ago, the 65-year-old man went to his attorney and said: "I want to die with the name I was born with."

The attorney told his story to Judge Clarence B. Nixon. The judge said he'd be happy to oblige and signed an order restoring "plain Mr. Vince" his name of Vincenzo Michele Vinciguerra.

Opium Traffic Delays British-Thailand Armistice

BANGKOK—(AP)— A formal agreement between Thailand and Great Britain terminating the state of war between the two countries is being delayed owing to opium traffic in Thailand.

Officials of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs said under terms of the agreement Thailand agreed to sign eight international conventions, including the Geneva convention of 1936, suppressing traffice in illicit drugs.

They said opium was being grown in Kengtung, now part of Burma, and smuggled across Thailand. Thailand has taken up the issue with the Burma government, which in turn, has informed Thailand it will take about three years to stamp out opium growing in Kengtung.

In a survey conducted in New York City schools, teachers stated that classrooms should have windows placed low enough for seated pupils to see out of them in order to avoid a closed-in feeling.

Carriages with bodies suspended on straps appeared in Europe early in the 1400s.

Table Tool History

NEW YORK—(AP)—Jean Sulpice, who probably was a Frenchman, had this to say about table manners in 1480:

"It is wrong to grab your food with both hands at once; meat should be taken with three fingers, and too much should not be put in the mouth at the same time."

The quotation comes from a pamphlet prepared by Dan S. Defenbacher, director of the Walker Art Center, for use with an exhibition showing the evolution of the knife, fork and spoon. The display is open here at the American Museum of Natural History.

Early forks are traced to the Greeks and Romans, and the three-tined fork to a 17th century Italian whose wife nagged him about using all five fingers. The knife is prehistoric, and the first spoons were sea shells and gourds, the booklet said.

The gravity pull of the earth as it spins on its axis may be what gives the earth its magnetic field and makes compasses point to the north.

War And Woe Is Far From Bermuda

NEW YORK, March 22— (AP) — Are you weary of stories of atom bombs, germ warfare, strikes, crimes and the high cost of living?

You are? That's fine. Because the only story I have to tell today is the story of a happy time — two weeks in Bermuda.

Frances, the girl who cashes my pay check, had been wanting to go there for several years. She said she felt sure it would be like Quebec, where we once spent a summer vacation.

I thought this was one of the most illogical remarks I had ever heard in nearly fourteen years of marriage.

"Look," I said, opening the atlas to a map of North America. "Quebec is way up north. It is part of Canada and most of the people still speak French. Bermuda is a collection of semi-tropical coral islands in the Atlantic ocean and the people speak English. How can they be alike?"

"Well," said Frances. "I think Bermuda will be like Quebec because we had a nice time in Quebec and if we go to Bermuda we'll have a nice time there, too."

Humbly, I shut the atlas. The feminine mind has a logic above the bare statistics of geography.

And so we went to Bermuda. We flew down in a Pan-American Clipper. In the seat across the aisle sat a tall man with a distinguished moustache. He turned out to be Secretary of State Dean Acheson, and an agent of the airline introduced us.

He is a poised and friendly man. We chatted about Korea for a few moments before landing, and the secretary said:

"This is the first vacation I've had in more than two years. The President said he wouldn't call me back unless it is absolutely necessary."

Achesons Neighbors

Later we found the Achesons were our neighbors. They had a cottage adjoining ours at the Coral Beach club and a bodyguard assigned by the Bermudian government stood watch day and night. It seemed a sad thing to me — to be on a vacation with a bodyguard.

We used to see the secretary striding up and down the beach in an old weathered jacket patched at the elbows with leather. Once I overheard a couple of elderly ladies — Republicans probably — discussing him.

"I don't believe in a thing that Washington is doing these days, but he does seem like such a nice man," said one.

"Yes," agreed the other, "And isn't it comforting to see someone in the government wearing patches?"

Our own cottage bore this uneasy title on the door: "Enchanted Trifle."

"I'd rather have it a trifle enchanted than a trifle haunted," said Frances.

And it was a trifle enchanted. It overlooked a beach and the wide blue sea. There was a bush outside the window. Every morning a redbird came and perched there and woke us up with his cheery: "Here! Here! Here!" and bluebirds flitted past so bright they almost hurt your eyes.

For two wonderful weeks we spent the days swimming in azure waters and soaking up sunshine on the warm white sands. War and woe seemed far away. It seemed a crime — and it is a crime — that all th world could not be like this: Peaceful, calm and undistressed. .

It had to end. And it did end. On the way to the airport for the flight home I remarked to Frances:

"You know, we came all the way to Bermuda — and we have not seen a single Bermuda onion."

The taxi driver laughed.

"We used to grow a lot here," he said. "We shipped them to the states. Now the states grow their own and put up a tariff against ours. But they still call them Bermuda onions."

"That's too bad," I murmured.

"Oh, no," he said cheerfully. "Just keep on sending us your tourists and you can have our onions. We'll make out all right."

Spring Comes to Minnesota

Deep snowdrifts bring life to a standstill on this farm near Wheaton, typical of many in Minnesota marooned by three blizzards in eight days. Field operations normally would be underway on the first official day of Spring. Instead, vehicles are almost buried by the paralyzing drifts. This picture was made from a Civil Air Patrol plane, one of several answering emergency calls, mostly for food and fuel, from isolated homes in homes in southern and western Minnesota. Play Given at Glover School

The play "And the Doctor Said" to be presented by the Camp Branch Ladies Aid Society will be given Tuesday night, March 27 at the Glover school house. The play had been planned for March 23 but due to other activities in the neighborhood it was postponed. The play is a comedy.

Homemakers at Carson Home

"Meet Your Mind," by Dr. William Menniger, was given by Miss Lillian Watkins, home demonstration agent, to the Brown Homemakers club which met March 16 at the home of Mrs. Ben Carson.

Mrs. V. M. Warren presented a lesson on gardening. Garden plans, new variety of seeds, Missouri Planting guide, fertilizing and varieties of foods best grown for freezing were discussed.

Mrs. Ben Carson gave the devotional. Mrs. Everett Keele and Mrs. Ben Carson sang, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

Plans were made to have an auction sale soon.

Guests were Miss Watkins, Miss Leta Bradney and Mrs. R. F. Trueman.

Hens on U. S. farms averaged 167 eggs per layer in 1950 compared with a previous 10-year average of 147.

The Republican Party Proudly Presents

DR. G. H. ABNEY

as its candidate for re-election as a member of The Sedalia School Board.

Dr. Abney is seeking re-election to the School Board on his past record of performance as a member of that Board.

He is well qualified for this office. He was born and reared in Sedalia and attended both grade and high school here. He was valdictorian of his college graduating class and was awarded an honorary key which is the highest award given from any dental college. He has practiced dentistry here in Sedalia for the past 21 years.

He served in the U. S. Navy for four years during World War II and a part of that time in the Pacific area.

Dr. Abney is 43 years of age, married, and has one child in grade school. He is an active church member. He is deserving of your vote and support in the city election on Tuesday, April 3rd.

YOUR HELP IS NEEDED

You, as a Sedalia citizen and taxpayer, have the answer to a sound administration of the business affairs of our city. Such administration can only come when you elect to office honest, intelligent men of stability to be your servants in the handling of your city's business, and the planning for your city's future.

H. O. BERRY
Republican Candidate for
Alderman First Ward

NATHAN L. BROWN
Republican Candidate for
Alderman Second Ward

T. J. McMILLIN
Republican Candidate for
Alderman Third Ward

CLYDE SWAFFORD
Republican Candidate for
Alderman Fourth Ward

The planning and administration of a constructive city program is not a one-man job, especially when the hands of that public servant are tied to a great measure by a partisan group of councilmen who are the tools of a one-man political machine whose objective is the domination of the entire affairs of our city and all our citizenry. Rather, a sound administration of city affairs is the result of harmonious planning by men whose foremost concern is the betterment of Sedalia, the welfare of its citizens, and consideration for its taxpayers who pay the bills. Only when men work together toward a common goal can the best interests of Sedalia be served.

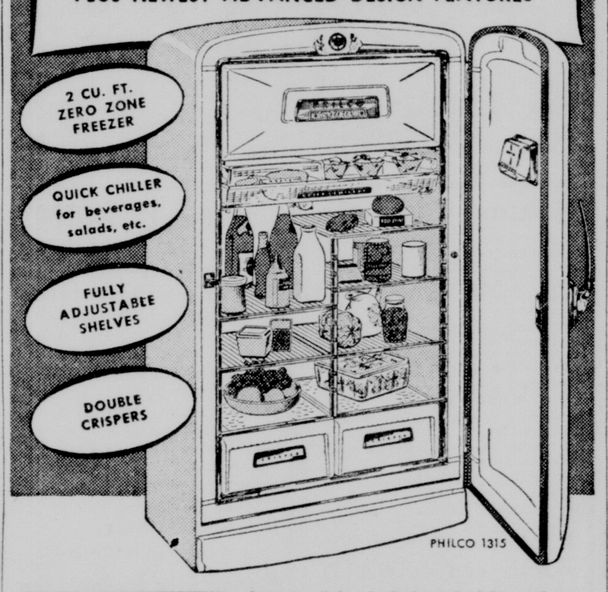

On Tuesday, April 3rd, you will have an opportunity to partially untie the hands that are striving to work for you. You can accomplish this by electing to your city council the men whose pictures are shown here. These men are unafriad to speak and vote their own convictions. These men are not the tools or rubber stamp of any one-man machine, but free men who have only one reason for asking for your vote . . . and that is the opportunity to serve you as you have every right to be served . . . to give you the type of good city government for which you pay your hard-earned tax dollars.

The Republican party proudly offers these men to you for your consideration. They are your friends . . . your neighbors . . . men who seek to serve you fearlessly . . . men who are asking for the opportunity to put the city affairs back into the hands of the entire citizenry they represent, and take it out of the hands of a one-man dominated political clique, so that Sedalia may go forward.

If you believe in city government of the people, for the people, and by the people, then give your help by energetically supporting and voting for these worthy candidates, who represent the Republican party, in the forthcoming city election on Tuesday, April 3rd.
